Lowell Road

WAKEFIELD, April 11.—Clarence M. Loud of Melrose was held for murder in the first degree yesterday in connection with the fatal shooting Saturday night of Patrolman James A. Preston, whose body was found by automobileists in a lonely spot on Lowell road. In the dead patrolman's hand was a lighted flashlight and in his cap, the police said, was a memorandum indicating he had arrested Loud on a statutory charge.

In the cap also was the license number of an automobile that proved to be Loud's. Discovery of the car, backed into a wood, with the license plate turned up, led to Loud's arrest early Saturday.

Loud refused to comment on the shooting, but the police said he admitted to Officer Nathan A. Patis that he was on the Lowell road Saturday night on his way to visit John Kieran of this town. He also admitted, the

STATE TO ACT AGAINST PONZI

Bay State Attorney General Obtains Permission
From U. S. Atty. Gen.

BOSTON, April 11.—Charles Ponzi's day of reckoning in the state courts on charges of larceny in connection with his broken scheme of high finance that left several thousand investors short of several million dollars, is not to be long delayed because of his federal imprisonment. If state authorities have their way, it developed today that Attorney General Allen had obtained from Attorney General Daugherty in a visit to Washington permission to have Ponzi produced in the state courts. Ordinarily federal imprisonment has served as a stay to state prosecutions.

Daniel W. Coughlin, counsel for the pseudo-financier, appeared before Judge Morton of the federal court today in protest against the proposed proceeding. The judge said the question was one of great importance and he would have to take it under consideration. Sheriff Earl D. Blake of Plymouth, county keeper of the jail at which Ponzi is confined, was present, and Judge Morton suggested that he file papers as the basis for a decision in the matter.

In one of the most largely attended and enthusiastic mass meetings of its kind held here in years, the Lowell campaign to raise $45,000 for Irish relief was formally launched at the Lowell Opera House yesterday afternoon. Hon. Thomas P. Gore, former senator from Oklahoma, and Major Edward J. Sampson of the governor's staff, state field director for the Massachusetts committee on relief in Ireland, were the principal speakers of the occasion, and each treated his subject in a most magnetic manner. Former Senator Gore, blind in both eyes, nevertheless proved a most eloquent speaker and held the attention of his audience from the moment he arose. He said that Ireland had done more for the world than the world can ever do for Ireland, and without going into the pros and cons of the Irish cause, made a very strong appeal for generosity in the support of the relief movement.

Major Sampson spoke first of the conflicting reports concerning the situation in Ireland which have come to

Necessary to Complete
Mores School Addition

At least $35,000 additional will have to be borrowed before the 14-room addition to the Mores school in the Highlands can be completed and furnished, according to Commissioner George F. Marchand of the public property department.

Originally $160,000 was appropriated for this building and later $20,000 additional was voted, but inasmuch as high loans were negotiated simply for "schoolhouse construction" without any specific undertaking being named, part of the money has wandered into other channels, such as portable school construction and additions to the Bartlett and Pawtucket schools.

The school construction appropriation is known as a "running appropriation." That is, two or three individual appropriations may be punched to cover providing they are all for school construction. That accounts for

GRADE CROSSING WILL REMAIN

Railroad Will Not Abolish Dangerous Crossing in Middlesex Street

Supreme Judicial Court Upholds Decree of Grade
Crossing Commission

Unless there is a decided improvement in the financial condition of the Boston & Maine railroad or an enactment of new legislation, the grade crossings in Middlesex street and Western avenue will not be abolished for some time to come.

City Solicitor William J. Regan today received notice that the supreme judicial court had affirmed the decree of the grade crossing commissioners made some years ago, ruling that the financial condition of the road did not warrant abolition of the crossings in question. The full finding in the matter has not yet been received but is expected within a few days.

Thus is brought to a close a matter which has hung fire since 1909 when agitation for the abolition of the crossings first started. For a number of years it remained dormant and was about to be dismissed in 1917 when the city solicitor took action to prevent dismissal. At that time the war was starting and the government was about to take over the roads; consequently, progress on the abolition of the crossings was then out of the question.

Later, however, the chamber of commerce asked the municipal council to take some step in the matter and last summer the city solicitor at the direction of the council sought a hearing in the superior court on the question of dismissing the report of the grade crossing commission. Owing to the congestion of the Middlesex docket a hearing was granted in the Suffolk court before Judge Lawton. The motion of City Solicitor Regan, that the finding be dismissed, was denied, but inasmuch as one of the reasons given for the denial was the financial condition of the Boston & Maine, the solicitor appealed and the matter went to the supreme judicial court.

Early in March the case was argued in the supreme court and the court took the matter under advisement. Today came word that the commission's findings had been upheld and that the financial condition of the road did not warrant the work being done at this time.

DAMAGES AWARDED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

In the case of Charles W. Hamilton, a five-year-old boy, suing through his father as his next friend, the jury this morning awarded a verdict of $1100 for conscious suffering as a consequence of an auto accident on Saratoga street, Sept. 2, 1920. The defendant, Joseph Silva, did not contest the case.

The evidence in the case showed that the boy's neck was severely injured and it was necessary to keep the upper part of his body encased in a plaster cast for a considerable period of time.

Charles T. Hamilton, the father of the boy, who sued to recover the amount spent for medical attendance and care for his son, was awarded a verdict of $400. W. A. Hogan was counsel for the plaintiffs.

"GYPS" BUSY IN MERRIMACK SQUARE

Relieving three local men of their wallets, and getting in all $137.50, pickpockets on Saturday evening made merry in Merrimack square, between 8 and 9:30 p. m. A pocketbook was removed from the person of a young man who was boarding a car on Bridge street. He was jostled as he was entering the car, and afterwards discovered the loss of the purse which contained $51 in bills. The sum of $50 was taken a short time afterwards from a man who was standing in front of the Woolworth store, and $3.25 was taken from another victim on Central street near Merrimack. Either a troop of light-fingered gentlemen, or a single skilled pickpocket, it is believed, made the haul. The police are conducting an investigation.

Bombs, Gas, Petrol, Rifles

ing 20-Minute Battle

DUBLIN, April 11.—A battle raged for 20 minutes today around the North-western hotel in the North Wall section of the city. Civilians armed with bombs and firearms attacked the hotel, where government auxiliaries are quartered. One of the assaulting party was killed and several were wounded, two of them seriously.

A number of the auxiliaries are believed to have been wounded. The attackers began their onslaught as the dockworkers were proceeding to their places of employment. Bombs, poison gas, missiles and bottles of petrol were hurled into the hotel precincts, after which rifles and revolvers were used freely from three sides. The auxiliaries, taken by surprise, sprang to points of vantage, some of them in pajamas, and engaged in a brief 20 minute battle, until reinforcements arrived. The attackers then withdrew leaving a quantity of bombs.

Danger Not Yet Past—Government Rushes Precautionary Measures

LONDON, April 11.—British mine owners and their striking employees conferred for an hour at the board of trade this morning on a possible settlement of the controversy which led to the miners' walkout last week. The conference adjourned at noon until 4 o'clock this afternoon. Robert S. Horne, chancellor of the exchequer, presided.

While in this city there was general relief at the reopening of the "unconditional" negotiations, there was no disposition to regard all danger as being past and the government had not relaxed its precautionary measures.

The government was expected, according to the Times to offer at today's meeting, temporary assistance which would tide the mine owners over a difficult period, and the newspaper declared this action would materially assist the parties to the controversy in arriving at a settlement. Estimates of the cost of the miners' dispute to the country, including the loss of unmined coal, unpaid wages, decreased railway traffic and the cost of emergency measures place the bill which the country is paying because of the strike, at nearly $16,000,000 per week.

Serious Heart Attack

DOORN, Holland, April 11.—(By the Associated Press)—Former Empress Augusta Victoria of Germany, died here at 6 o'clock this morning. By a strange coincidence the end came just one year after she suffered her first serious attack of heart disease.

It was while she was preparing to enter the house of Doorn the present home of the former emperor of Germany after the long residence at Ammerongen, that she was taken with what at the time was believed to be a fatal attack. That was on April 11, 1920. For a few days there were reports that her death was momentarily expected but she rallied, and accompanied her husband to Doorn on May 16 last.

SEEKS TO HAVE WILL SET ASIDE

In the superior court today, before Judge Franklin T. Hammond and a jury, Mrs. Mary Josephine Butler sought to have the will of her mother, Helen F. Carey, set aside on the ground that undue influence was brought to bear by her brother, George F. Carey, to secure the making of the document in his favor.

It was stated by counsel in opening the case that the deceased was 73 years old at the time of her death and that the will was made in 1913. The will, which was read, left $1 to Mrs. Butler and all of the rest of the estate to the son.

The case was before the jury, on certification from the probate court to determine three issues of fact. They were whether the will was duly executed in accordance with law, whether the testatrix was of sound mind at the time of its making and whether or not undue influence was brought to bear in securing its making. Only the last issue was contested.

FOYE WILL REJECT ALL CEMENT BIDS

Purchasing Agent Edward H. Foye today announced that he would reject all bids received at his office last week for the furnishing of 4000 barrels of cement for the use of the street and sewer departments this year and would purchase cement only as needed by those departments.

His action follows the receipt of a letter from the directors of the chamber of commerce suggesting that inasmuch as there are indications of a drop in the price of cement in the near future, it would be wise for the city to incorporate in its contract a provision whereby it would benefit by any drop. This has been deemed inadvisable by the purchasing agent because he felt that he would be unable to get any proposals under such an arrangement. However, by buying by the carload or in similar quantities, he will be able to keep constantly in touch with the market price and benefit thereby.

Mr. Foye today wrote a letter to George F. Wells, secretary-manager of the chamber of commerce, notifying him of the decision, and will later confer with Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy on the immediate needs of the street and sewer departments as far as cement is concerned. He will then call for bids on whatever amount Mr. Murphy desires for immediate use.

O'Callaghan Must Leave by June 5

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Under orders issued today by Secretary Davis, Donald J. O'Callaghan, lord mayor of Cork, who arrived in this country as a stowaway last January 4, may be deported by immigration officials any time after June 5, should he not leave the country before that time.

The Irish official, who came to the United States to testify before the commission of the committee of 100 investigating conditions in Ireland, is given 60 days to leave the country from the date of the decision of the state department holding that he was not entitled to asylum as a political refugee. This decision, it was disclosed today, was handed down April 6.

Secretary Davis said he accepted the ruling of his predecessor that O'Callaghan was a seaman and as such entitled to a reasonable time in which to reship for a foreign port.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Elisa Ryan, who has charmed thousands with her portrayal of the title role in "The Girl of the Year," will hold the first place on this week's bill at the B. F. Keith theatre, appearing in "The Girl of the Year," a delightful little comedy piece by Dion Tiberius. Miss Ryan is the possessor of that inimitable buoyancy which is such a Celtic characteristic, and which will so admirably fill the requirements of the part she is to play. Prior to her appearance in comedy she was a delight for a number of years in such thrilling musical pieces as "The Girl of the Year," "Marcelle," and "The Kiss Waltz," and she was also a member of the company which toured the Pacific coast in "The Blue Maid."

Vanderbilt at its speediest, and also as ingenious as one will well wish, will be shown in "Recital Classique," which Burt Gordon and Gene Ford will give during the week, to add to the gaiety of the bill. It is that invaluable combination of music and comedy, Gordon being the comedian, while Miss Ford, who is a splendid singer, has the part of the vocal teacher. How Miss Ford endeavors to teach Gordon to sing a grand opera aria makes one of the funniest of incidents.

A pair of eccentric dancers, who literally make their toes talk are Joe Rome and Lou Galt. "When Extremes Meet" is what they call their offering, and it is substantiated by reason of the fact that one of the pair is very tall and the other is very short. But both are wizards at dancing.

Novelty is rather a necessity on well organized vaudeville bills, and so William Ebs will contribute this quality to the program. Ebs might be classed in a general way as a ventriloquist, but he has a new medium for the projection of his voice. It is most unusual.

Braut young women, who are also accomplished singers, are the Thornton sisters. They have sung all over the country, on the concert stage as well as in vaudeville, and they are capable of interesting any audience. The Sterlings are wonderful figure roller skaters, and Peck's Educated Blockheads constitute a marionette act that is of the first class. News Klorograms, Topics, and a series of comic sketches will also be shown on the bill.

THE STRAND

"Polly With a Past," with Ina Claire, the Belasco stage star, in the stellar role, will be one of the features on the big picture program at The Strand for the first three days of the week, starting with matinee today. It was this play that brought Miss Claire, for nearly a year now engaged in enacting the principal part in "The Gold Diggers" at the Lyceum theatre, New York city, to stardom. The story has to do with a young girl who comes from the country to study for the operatic stage, but forced by circumstances finally to become a housewife. There the friends of Rex Van Zile, in an effort to interest this impressionable young man from another woman they detect, prevail upon Polly Sharon to assume a part of an interesting but brilliant hue. And there properly—perhaps improperly—the story really begins. In support of Miss Claire are Ralph Graves, Marie Walworth, Harry Benham, Clinton Webb and others of screen note, whose combined efforts make for a wonderfully interesting and amusing recital of events that might easily have happened in real life. The star is indeed fascinating and the photography and carrying out of the various details of the story unusually well looked after.

In "Extraordinary" critics agree that May Altent has a vehicle fitting her rare talent. The picture has met with one reception—that of unqualified favor. It is a picture of vivid universal interest, sketching a woman who calmly and calmly demanded the world's best things, while her husband, slaved to earn a living. It has a score and appeal far exceeding anything heretofore seen in pictures. Dick Vane, a young lawyer, marries Nancy Brown, a girl burdened with expensive habits and social aspirations and who cannot resist the suggestion of a Mrs. Van Ruyter to help her sell into society. To do this an expensive home and elaborate gown creations must be had. It all ends in the young husband acquiescing, and nothing means to meet the demands by forging a check on his father's name. When the misdeed is discovered, the furious father tells his son he must pay the price and go to jail. Nancy is denounced as the cause of his son's ruin, and as an alternative to the jail route, she is asked to show her love by leaving him. The tremendous climax comes with her decision, and the denouement brings a closer understanding of mutual help and a new life. Robert Edison and others of equal screen ability are in the support of the star.

A comedy and weekly as well as musical numbers by Miss Gisle Robbins better rounded out a bill of exceptional strength.

LOVELL OPERA HOUSE:

"Arrah-Na-Pogue" ("Arrah-of-the-Kiss") written by Dion Boucicault, the actor author of "The Colleen Bawn," "The Shaughraun," "The Octoroon," and other successes of the stage that have stood the test of time and are still enjoying marked success all over the country, will be the presentation by the Lovell Players at the Opera House this week, and judging from the large advance sale of tickets at this early date, there is every reason to expect a record-breaking attendance. People whose sympathies are with the people of the Emerald Isle in their present crisis, will find in this offering many phases and features that will meet appeal to them.

"Arrah-Na-Pogue" was first presented at the Drury Lane theatre, London, where it ran 200 performances, a most unusual accomplishment in these days. The scenes of the play are laid in Wicklow in the year 1755 and the conditions depicted then are similar to what they are at the present. The wedding feast, the singing of Irish melodies, the prohibition "Wearing of the Green," the lip dance contest, will be given in detail. The company will be augmented by the well known dance experts, Jennie Conway and James O'Garra. Milton Byron will be seen in the character of "Shaun," which was originally interpreted by Boucicault, and Miss Margaret Fields will be seen as "Arrah Moelishy" (Arrah-of-the-Kiss).

Miss Florence Hill, the clever ingenue of the players, will be seen in the role of "Ellen Kavanaugh," a Wicklow nightingale, and Miss Irisella Knowles has been assigned to the part of "Kitty Welch." Maxwell Driscoll will portray the role of the farmer and the others of the cast will be found in conventional roles.

The scenery will be taken from photographs of the localities depicted, and the costumes of the various characters will be faithfully and carefully looked after by Director Jack Bennett. The big scene of the play at the finish when Shaun escapes from his cell and rescues his sweetheart, is wonderfully thrilling and entertaining.

The advance sale of tickets at this time indicates a record-breaking attendance for the week. Better order yours at once and avoid possible delay. Tel. 261. Box office open daily from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE.

William S. Hart's latest photoplay, "On the Border," which opened a three days' engagement at the Merrimack Square theatre this afternoon, is in every respect a great feature which will thrill all heart fans. It is one of those stories which hold the attention as though by a spell and there isn't a moment during its screening that isn't a thrill of its own. It is indubitably one of Mr. Hart's finest productions. Eva Novak is the leading woman and a highly capable supporting cast is engaged. The other feature for the first half of the week, "The Gilded Lily," starring Mae Murray, presents a story which is reminiscent of "On the Border," in which she scored such a success recently. There is a surprise finish which it would be unfair to reveal here. A comedy and the International News are other attractions of the current bill.

BOSTON, April 11.—Unanimous endorsement of the Salvation Army's Home Service program has been received from the governors of the six New England states and all consider that the building of advisory boards to assist the Salvation Army in each community is a distinct step forward in solving many social evils that at present remain unchecked.

Considerable progress has already been made in forming these boards; and within a few weeks it is expected that a strong representation will be established in every community in New England.

In endorsing the program of the Salvation Army, Governor Channing H. Cox of Massachusetts said, "I am glad to add my commendation to the proposed plan to form advisory boards."

in large centres throughout New England. It seems to me that boards of this character, composed of business and professional men, would be of great value to an organization such as the Salvation Army.

GOOD MEN'S MOTIVES MISINTERPRETED

Whenever a good man gives what ever he may have for the public good, there is always someone who misinterprets his motives, attacks his ideas and down his efforts. This was the declaration of Rev. Norman B. Cawley, of the department of public speaking at Harvard university, who preached at the First Congregational church yesterday. His subject in the avenue was "Little Sins, or the Virtue of Mud-Slinging." He reminded his hearers that "We have all heard someone make a derogatory statement in regard to something which we are doing, although we personally may not have any interest in it." Nevertheless, declared the speaker, the scars we bear from the mud-slinging of others, are honorable scars, and good proceeds from them, as radium from refuse.

"There is something great and good in dirt and refuse," said Rev. Mr. Cawley, and went on to instance the marvelous scientific achievements due to use of the metal silicium, which is a by-product of certain industries. Silicium is reclaimed from refuse, he said, but it has been the means of manufacturing an appliance by which the blind may read. "He who bears a little scar of this world," continued the speaker, "shows that he has struggled and labored, and it is a gaily stain. In the duellings we do in life we cannot forbear to get some scars so let us bear them proudly. We have all felt at one time or another in our lives, that we have been misunderstood and misinterpreted. But there is one comfort. No matter how much we may be abused, the light of truth and the spirit of service will shine through and we will have our proper reward."

Lowell Greeks Celebrate Centenary Of Their Home Land Independence

SCENES FROM THE GREEK INDEPENDENCE PARADE SHOWING MEMBERS OF THE MESSINIA SOCIETY AND GREEK SCHOOL CHILDREN IN THIS LINE OF MARCH

Thousands of flags borne by more than 2000 marchers made a colorful spectacle of the parade which moved through Lowell's principal thoroughfares yesterday afternoon, during the celebration of the centenary of Greek liberation from the Moslem yoke. The red, white and blue of the American flag and the blue and white of the Greek national colors were in the hands of nearly every participant in the procession, which followed a thanksgiving service at Holy Trinity church, in Lewis street. Military and naval veterans of the world war headed the column, uniformed and acting as a color guard for the flags of America and Greece, which were borne side by side. Local Hellenic societies followed in a body, together with other men, women and children of Greek birth or extraction. Crowds lined the route of the procession, which passed through Middlesex, Central and Merrimack streets.

The day's celebration started in the forenoon with a special service at the Orthodox church in Jefferson street, and was followed by a street parade in the afternoon, in which at least 2000 men and women participated and the climax was reached at the mass meeting in Associate hall, where a religious service and patriotic exercises were conducted.

At the morning church service which was held at 11 o'clock the officiating clergyman was Rev. Nestor Soukides and Rev. Nicholas Menides. The service was in the form of a mass of thanksgiving and was brought to a close with prayers for the success of the Greek army which is now struggling with the Turks. A special musical program under the direction of George Gazoulous was given during the service.

At the close of the church service the two brass bands which had been engaged for the parade made their appearance and rendered concerts in various parts of the district up to the time of the formation of the parade.

At 1 o'clock the various societies of the community, the school children and the men, who are not connected with any organization, assembled at the church and shortly after 1:30 o'clock the "forward march" command was given.

President of the community. The formation of the parade was as follows: Platoon of police commanded by Lieut. Connors, Lowell Portuguese band, young men who served in the United States army and navy during the world war, attired in their service uniforms, veterans of the Balkan wars, boys and girls of the parochial schools, President Christos Zlogos and Secretary Demetrios Athanasoulis of the community and Dr. John R. Gatsopoulos, speaker of the day, P.A.A. Girls, headed by Miss Kalliope Nicolapoulos and Miss Esther Nico au; Lagadia society, commanded by President Peter Rigopoulos; King Othon or Messinia society, President Constantine Kelatos; Rigas Fariakos society, President Jax Zlogos; Lawrence Portuguese band, members of the community and a score or more of decorated automobiles.

The marchers carried American and Greek flags and made a fine appearance. The automobiles were very attractive. One of them, a large touring car operated by Theodore Gavriel, contained school children, who represented the community.

Strong Appeal for Irish Relief

This country and then went into the details of the operation of the White Cross there and the program of the relief campaign in this country.

The speakers were heard by an audience which completely filled every seat in the large auditorium and both balconies, while many stood throughout the meeting. The theatre had been given up for the meeting through the kindness of the V.M.C.A. and the Musical Union. These organizations had planned to hold a concert at the Opera House yesterday but when it became known that the theatre was wanted for the relief meeting, they immediately consented to postpone their program until next Sunday.

The speechmaking was preceded by an excellent musical program given under the direction of Mrs. John T. Donohue and Mrs. Joseph W. Green. The choral society of the League of Catholic Women gave a number of selections from the oratorio, "The Holy City," which it is soon to present, with Mrs. Donohue directing. Andrew A. McCarthy was greatly applauded for his singing of "Mother Machree," with harp accompaniment by Miss Grace Donohue. Mr. McCarthy with Mr. and Mrs. James A. Murphy of St. Michael's choir, sang several Irish numbers with fine musical effect and won liberal applause. The Opera House orchestra opened the program with an overture.

Fred H. Bourke, supervisor of the relief drive in northern Middlesex county, opened the meeting by introducing Capt. W. C. MacBrayne, who presided. The chairman made an introductory speech urging the claims of Ireland upon the humane and charitable instincts of the American people. The existing distress, he said, should be considered apart from any sentiment of prejudice because of race or creed. "That actual distress exists in Ireland and that the funds would be honestly applied where most needed," he said, would be shown by the speakers who were to be presented.

Major Sampson, who received a cordial greeting, said that at the instigation of Senator David L. Walsh, several business men of New York decided to look into the question of distress in Ireland and organized a committee of seven Quakers to look into conditions in that country. They chose men of this belief because they are not allowed to engage in war and thought that they could not be opposed by England or any other country.

The committee went all through Ireland, he said, from north to south, and in both Catholic and Protestant territory, they found that great damage had been done by the destruction of factories and creameries and that when military forces destroy property, no insurance is paid. The loss at the end of 1920 amounted to $200,000,000 worth of property, he said. He told of 30,000 having been driven from the shanty yards in Belfast, of one house in every three houses having been burned in Lurgan, the destruction of the city of Cork, the hostilities at Balbriggan and the creameries all over Ireland on which the people depended in a large measure for support. That the unemployment and resulting distress is widespread in Ireland is attested by the highest authorities.

The mayor of Dublin sent word of children starving and subsisting on a bun and a cup of cocoa daily. In other parts of the country the suffering was even worse.

The speaker asserted that Ireland is in a terrible distress and must have immediate relief. He said that such men as President Harding, Vice President Coolidge and Secretary of Commerce Hoover, together with many other government officials, had endorsed the plan to relieve the suffering there.

The American Red Cross has contributed $100,000 to the work and the committee in charge of the campaign will make an effort to see that not only the present distress is relieved, but that some plan of reconstruction is put into effect.

Major Sampson said that he didn't believe any country in the world will prevent the committee from giving assistance where it is so sorely needed. Religious sects and political parties have no consideration in the work of the committee, he maintained. Lowell's quota is $45,000 and the people of New Hampshire, Connecticut and New Jersey have already exceeded their quotas.

The speaker then told in detail of the way in which the organization is functioning in Ireland through the White Cross, a wholly non-partisan, non-political organization. He read a letter from the head of the society showing what is now being accomplished and what is needed to further the work. In conclusion, he asked those in the audience to put their shoulders to the wheel so that the

GOOD FISHING
George R. Dearborn, agent of the Day State Cotton Corp., returned last evening from Lake Winnepesaukee, N. H., where he spent the week fishing for lake trout. Mr. Dearborn reports that fishing in New Hampshire lake is excellent and that good catches are being made by sports from various parts of New England. The limit for one fisherman in one day is six trout. Mr. Dearborn went to the limit, and he says there were many others who fished as he. The season for lake trout opened April 1, but the lid is still on brook trout and anglers will not be able to try their luck until April 15.

NO-BIT, NO-RUN GAME
COBLENZ, April 10.—The honor of developing the first no-bit, no-run game of the 1921 baseball season, so far as appears, fell to Coblenz today at the opening of the season. The army league, comprising teams of the American forces of occupation, Martin of Texas, pinking for the quartermasters' team, blanketed the Eighth Infantry last year's champions. Only one Eighth Infantry batter got on, reaching first on a pass.

Redfern Corsets

There is a Redfern made for every figure, designed to Nature's ideal and with the lines of fashion in mind.

It Feels So Good Too

AFTER delighted comment on the beautiful lines it gave her figure, she added: "It feels so good, too!"—a compliment indeed with the accurate shaping of the corsets this season must accomplish.

The secret of Redfern's shaping lies in the designing. So carefully has this been done that they will mould even a shapeless figure into its beautiful contour with absolute comfort to the wearer. In fact the wearer and her Redfern are one.

For the Spring and Summer frocks, what so fitting as a light-weight, exquisitely fashioned Redfern corset—soft to the touch and made with as little weight as possible to accomplish its purpose—a Redfern is delightful, flexible, cool and comfortable—a corset in which to enjoy the summer days.

"Grand old commonwealth will go over the top."

Thomas P. Gore

Former Senator Gore was introduced in complimentary terms and received a great ovation. He said that starvation and pestilence were rampant in Ireland at the present time and that his purpose was not only to excite sympathy but also to stimulate generosity. He said that Ireland was the one nation which has never had any so-called "dark ages." It embraced Christianity without the use of fire or sword and has kept the name of Christianity burning. Ireland has done more for the world than the world can ever do for Ireland. He hoped America would endeavor at least to pay the interest on the debt she owes to Ireland. It is not as a figure of speech that Ireland was named "The island of saints and scholars."

To her monasteries and universities came many students from what was then pagan England, and from all over Europe. From Ireland went forth scholars and missionaries to the heathen tribes of the then known world. Ireland stands forth like a morning star giving promise of a brighter and a purer day.

"I do not mean to inquire into the justice of her cause. There are those here, no doubt, who are the champions of an Irish republic. There are those here who are champions of home rule, and government under a dominion plan. There are still others who may be indifferent—and possibly some who think it best that Ireland be ruled as at present. However much you may differ, you will not differ as to the duty of ministering unto the wants and needs of a suffering people. I do not believe there is anyone here who will refuse to contribute aid to hungry women on account of the religion, or to starving children because of the politics of their fathers. Did Christ say, 'Suffer the little children to come unto me—providing they are Baptists,' or 'Suffer the little children to come unto me—providing they are Catholics,' or 'Suffer the little children to come unto me—providing they are of no religion at all?' Will anyone refuse to give on account of the religion or politics of the needy? It is not so in Lowell."

Rev. Daniel J. Keleher, Ph. D.

The final speaker was Rev. Daniel J.

Keleher, Ph. D., pastor of St. Peter's church, who spoke briefly on the need of relief in Ireland and congratulated the audience on its size and evident interest in the relief campaign.

The meeting was in charge of a committee headed by Chairman James O'Sullivan and included Fred H. Bourke, Frank P. McGilly, Francis A. Warnock, Miss Alice T. Lee, Mrs. John T. Donohue, Miss Gaffney and Thomas E. Clark, secretary. A detail of soldiers from Battery B served as ushers.

Mr. Charles O'Malley of the O'Malley Advertising Agency of Boston, who has charge of the publicity work for the Irish relief fund, accompanied Senator Gore and Major Sampson from Boston.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

"OFF TO SEE THE WORLD"

"I'LL GO LONG," SAID MR. SEAL.

"What's the matter?" asked Flippey-Flap, when Mrs. Seal looked with a frightened air as though hunting a good place to hide.

"I don't want to see any pictures of the circus," she said fearfully. "My husband has been telling me what a dreadful place it is. They make you out fire and the Billy goats have stone heads to hit you with—and—You tell him, Silky, what an awful time you had."

Mr. Seal cleared his throat and looked uneasily toward the twins who were busily pasting posters on the icebergs. "Ahem!" he coughed. "I was just telling my wife about it," he said lamely.

Flippey-Flap winked. "Did you tell her all about the grand things you had to eat, and how kind the people were to you, and when you went by in your great red-and-gold wagon, with a nice tank to make you comfortable, how the children clapped their hands and cheered you? And did you tell her what fun it was to watch the crowds and how proud you felt when you played in the band and made such pretty music, and people waved their hats and handkerchiefs? And every time you did a clever trick you got a reward. Did you tell her all that?"

Mr. Seal did not think to say Mrs. Seal looked reproachful but she didn't say a word either. Instead she wobbled over and looked at the wonderful posters with their gorgeous breath-taking pictures, that the twins were pasting.

She came back and quietly tied on her bonnet. "Silky," said she, "you may stay if you wish, but I'm going to see the world."

Mr. Seal saw that the game was up and hunted up his hat, too. "I'll go long," said he. "I s'pose I can put off my home-making till some other time."

And he did.

message. This was expected to deal principally with domestic affairs, tariff, internal revenue and other home legislation. Peace and other international problems were scheduled for attention later in the session.

G.O.P. Again in Saddle

The special session beginning today marks the return of the republican party to complete national control. Not since President Taft's time have the White House, the senate and house and the government departments all been under republican rule. The senate consists with 53 republicans and 37 democrats and the house with 305 republicans and 132 democrats and one socialist.

Pro-eminent in the extra session program is fiscal legislation. This includes the Fordney emergency tariff bill, in line for immediate action, anti-dumping legislation, substitution of American for foreign valuations of imports, permanent tariff revision, a new internal revenue tax law, the budget system bill, and the soldiers' bonus bill. Other measures are those for reorganization of government departments and for reclassification of federal salary and wage scales.

The opening fund of bills and resolutions which failed during the last congress which adjourned March 4 last, always begins in the house. Introduction of senate bills and resolutions comes tomorrow.

Most of the senate and house members, new and old, were present for today's opening. Although perfunctory, the opening session always in the magnet for spectators. The senate having organized during its special session after March 4, interest today centered in the house proceedings.

Program in House

The house program today follows: 12 m.—William Tyler Page, clerk, calls house to order.

Prayer by the chaplain and reading by the clerk of President Harding's proclamation calling congress into extraordinary session.

Clerk Page calls the roll of the house, by states instead of alphabetical membership.

Election of speaker, Representative Gillett of Massachusetts, former speaker, being nominated from the republican side, and Representative Kitchin of North Carolina from the democratic side.

Speaker Gillett escorted to chair by a committee and after being sworn in delivers a brief address.

House officers re-elected and sworn in as follows: Clerk, William Tyler Page; sergeant-at-arms, Joseph O. Rodgers; doorkeeper, Bert Kennedy and postmaster, Frank W. Collier—all republican holdovers.

State delegations sworn in by Speaker Gillett.

Resolutions adopted appointing committees to notify the president and the senate of the opening of the house.

Election of republicans and democrats to committees.

Adoption of rules and adjournment until tomorrow.

The senate program was similar but more brief because of previous organization. It provided for the reading and opening prayer by chaplain.

Clerk George Sanderson reads President's proclamation calling the extra session.

Swearing in of two new senators, Norbeck of South Dakota and Burton of New Mexico, republicans, who were not present during the extra session of the senate after March 4.

Roll call and declaration of a constitutional quorum.

Resolutions appointing a committee—Senators Lodge of Massachusetts and Underwood of Alabama, republican and democratic floor leaders, respectively, to notify President Harding of the senate's presence, and of committee for similar notification of the house.

Adjournment until tomorrow.

Mendell Floor Leader

Few important changes in republican organizations in either senate or house were in prospect. Representative Mendell of Wyoming, continued as republican floor leader in the house and Representative Kitchin of North Carolina returned to that position for the democrats. Republican committee appointments were increased and democratic reduced on all senate and house committees because of the republican gains in congress. Chairmanships mostly remained unchanged. Under the senate rules, many senate minor committees were abolished and senators' committee assignments reduced.

The first legislation planned during the extra session is the Fordney emergency tariff bill. Leaders hope to get it into President Harding's hands this week virtually in the form in which it was voted by former President Wilson last March.

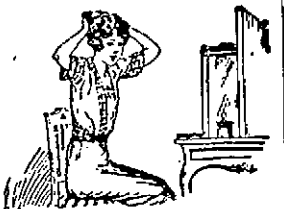

Permanent tariff revision is expected to follow the emergency bill in the house.

The senate calendar is headed by the $25,000,000 Colombian treaty, with an agreement to vote in eight days. Ratification is being predicted although there is vigorous opposition from a large fraction of republicans, who plan after tomorrow to open the doors for debate. It is expected that President Harding's special message to the senate in extra session last month will then be made public.

Action on Nominations

Immediate action is also planned by the senate on many nominations. A long list, including recess appointments, is expected tomorrow from the White House.

Two of the annual appropriation bills needed July 1—the army and navy budgets—are to be pressed through early in the session. The army measure, carrying $345,000,000, suffered a "pocket veto" by former President Wilson last March, while the navy bill, in which the house appropriated $25,000,000 and the senate naval committee $496,000,000, failed in the senate fight over disarmament. New recommendations as to a military program are expected from the administration. Prompt action on the two bills by the house is being predicted, but with further delay in prospect in the senate by further disarmament agitation. In that connection, Senator Dorah promises to renew his effort for action requesting the president to have the United States, Great Britain and Japan brought into a naval reduction conference.

International relations promise to play a large but probably delayed part in the new congress. Of first consideration is termination of the war status with Germany and Austria. Restoration of trade with Russia, Japanese questions and possibly Panama canal tolls were other big subjects in the offing.

In addition to the program of tariff and tax revision, the republican leadership provided busy action to curtail immigration. The measure voted by former President Wilson was scheduled for early passage, possibly first in the senate while the house is engaged with fiscal reform.

Other important measures for which pressure is in prospect: A new congressional reapportionment bill, in place of the measure which failed recently in the senate.

The Calder coal bill for publication of coal information.

The packer control bill. Cold storage regulation. Patent office reorganization. The Townsend maternity aid bill. The Watson bill liberalizing the war risk insurance act.

Philippine and Porto Rican independence. Amnesty for persons convicted under the espionage act.

Restriction of allied loans. Railroad reform also is to be prominent. A resolution authorizing an exhaustive investigation of railroad finances and other affairs by the senate interstate commerce committee is to be introduced at once by Chairman Cummins.

Other inquiries which will be continued will be the senate judiciary committee's investigation of allied loans and the house judiciary committee's examination of eligibility of Federal Judge Landis to continue as arbiter of organized baseball.

The tide of general investigations into departmental affairs is expected to fall.

JAPANESE SAILORS HELD

Five Arrested for Attempt to Smuggle Liquor Into
United States—One Shot

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 11.—Five Japanese sailors, one suffering from a bullet wound in the hip, were under arrest by federal prohibition officers here today as the result of an attempt by members of the crew of the Japanese steamer Erio Maru to smuggle ashore 14 cases of liquor. In addition to the liquor seized after being brought ashore by members of the crew, officials also were guarding cases taken when they later boarded and searched the vessel.

A lively exchange of shots took place when a group of sailors resisted arrest after they conveyed the 14 cases of liquor ashore at the direction of two prohibition officers who had visited the ship to arrange for its "purchase." Surrounded by officers hidden at the prearranged place of delivery, the sailors were said to have opened fire when an attempt was made to arrest them, one being wounded in the hip in the ensuing exchange of shots. After the arrests a search was made of the ship.

Officers who took part in the raid said their plans were laid after receiving information that members of the crew of the Erio Maru, which arrived here April 7, intended to smuggle in liquor. The vessel came here from Barry, England, to load phosphate.

The federal officers declined to state today whether they would take any action to seize the vessel, indicating that they would await the result of their investigation of the men held.

For the way that brings prettier teeth

Do as millions have done—make this ten-day test. See how film removal beautifies the teeth. Learn how to make safer teeth. Brush your teeth in the modern way and watch all the good effects.

Film makes teeth dingy

That vicious film you feel is the teeth's chief enemy. Most tooth troubles are now traced to it. It clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays. Old brushing methods did not effectively combat it. So very few people have escaped discoloration and decay.

Film absorbs stains, making the teeth look dingy. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief causes of pyorrhea.

Two ways to fight it

Dental science has now found two effective ways to fight film. They are combined in a new-day tooth paste—Pepsodent—made to meet modern requirements.

Pepsodent

The scientific film combater, approved by modern authorities and now advised by leading dentists everywhere—to bring five desired effects. All druggists supply the large tube.

We want every one who is in Lowell and vicinity to try Cinot. If they need a Spring Tonic or have stomach disorders and torpid liver or minor kidney troubles, and the results they get will surprise them. Mr. Wayne says:

"I enlisted with Uncle Sam in April, 1861, and was discharged in 1865, and fought with the Old Sixth Regiment until we went to Washington and then enlisted with the 26th. I was born in Ireland 53 years ago and it took me six weeks and three days to come to America. I have farmed for over 50 years and used to live six miles from Westford Centre but now am one mile off the state road at Chelmsford.

SNOW FALLS AS BRAVES
PREPARE FOR OPENING

BOSTON, April 11.—Braves Field where the major league baseball season will be opened locally on Wednesday, was being prepared for play today in a flurry of snow while a few hardy and hopeful fans joined in the advance sale of tickets. The Braves come home tomorrow from their spring trip, retaining temporarily every player tried out in the south except Paul Johnson, a pitcher, who left them last night to return to Columbia, S. C.

The Red Sox, who will play on other fields for a time, were watched with special interest for infield developments. Stuffy McInnis, the first baseman who had been a holdout, played yesterday at Newark for the first time this season, but still without written agreement with the management to meet his demands. Derrill Pratt was expected to report to fill second base within the week, but whether Captain Everett Scott would be able to play in the opening game of the season or be forced to break his record of more than four seasons of uninterrupted league play, was a question, as a strained ligament had kept him out of training trip games for a week.

BOXING CHAMPIONSHIPS

BOSTON, April 11.—The National Amateur Boxing Championship tournament, beginning tonight at the Arena, brought to the title-rings aspirants from many places in this country and Canada. The entrants included men and boys who had learned the manly art in surroundings as distinct as those of friendly matches in athletic clubs, competitive sparring in college gymnasiums and the sterner school of street corner fighting. The two nights of fighting to determine the national champions in eight classes were expected to provide the usual interesting comparisons of parlor boxers and street fighters.

FISH AND GAME LICENSE

Lowell Men Will Oppose Proposed Increase in Combination License

A delegation from the Lowell Fish and Game association will go to Boston tomorrow to attend a hearing on the proposed $2 hunting and fishing license. Heretofore the combination license cost $1 and now it is proposed to increase the price to $2.

A great many members of the Fish and Game association do not believe that a license to fish should be made necessary, but that at any rate it should not be necessary to pay $2 for a combination license if one intended only to fish and, vice versa, if one intended only to hunt. There is no opposition to a hunting license. Because of the danger attached there should be some provision for safety and responsibility. No danger, however, attaches to fishing and only a nominal cost, if any, should be charged for a license to fish. It is argued. The Lowell delegation at the hearing to be held in room 245, state house, at 10 a. m. tomorrow will be led by President Simon B. Harris of the local fish and game association, and Mr. Harris says he will pay his respects to the sponsors for the new bill.

THE BRITISH LABOR CRISIS

We are not prepared to believe that England is to be smashed by any coal strike. Following his usual tactics Premier Lloyd George will let the movement reach a dangerous climax by stern resistance to the demands of the men and then when everybody thinks disaster is inevitable, he will turn some kind of a back-handed emendation that will catch the strikers and bring about a settlement. The premier will emerge stronger politically, than ever and then he will challenge his enemies to seek a verdict of the people.

This may seem rather silly talk in view of a situation so menacing, but that is just what the wily prime minister wants—to save the nation and make the people believe that he will save them from industrial anarchy and Bolshevism, as he claims to have saved the empire during the war.

The miners and their allies in other unions may be charged with dangerous radical tendencies; but all such charges are unjust. They want fair wages and right working conditions, although it is charged that they want nationalization of the mines. They want government control continued, but as this was netting a financial loss of five million dollars a week, its continuance would be regarded in the same light as a government subsidy.

On the other hand, the miners foresee a movement to cut their wages to the pre-war level and they will fight against this; but there is every reason to believe that the government will see that no such cut shall be attempted—this as a condition of restoring peace and ending the strike.

It will be recalled that the premier broke off negotiations very abruptly when he first went into conference with the miners. He demanded that the miners should relinquish control of the pumps and on refusal of this point, he dropped negotiations, saying that any further discussion would be useless.

There would have been but little glory in settling the strike at that juncture. He wanted a crisis that would make every man, woman and child in England quake at contemplation of the consequences; and then, after some political maneuvering, he will grant concessions that will satisfy the miners and that would have been readily accepted in the first place. Then he will pose as the savior of the nation, the only man in England who can rescue the empire from every impending danger, and the people whom he has fooled will believe him and with loud acclamations shout "down with the enemies of Lloyd George."

The British people have not yet fathomed the cunning and the duplicity of the man who holds the helm of the ship of state. Sometimes he has steered the vessel deliberately toward the rocks and then when everybody thought ruin was unavoidable, he would shift his sails and on a new tack bring the vessel into calm and placid waters; after which, he walked the quarter-deck to receive the plaudits alike of king and people. Thus realizing the trickery and resourcefulness of the Machiavellian Lloyd George, we do not share the views of those who believe that England is to be swept by industrial anarchy and general internal disorder.

RAILWAY HOME RULE

It is to be regretted that Secretary-Manager George F. Wells of the chamber of commerce has felt impelled to resign as a member of the street railway home rule committee. Mr. Wells has put much time and energy into an attempt to serve the interests of the community and his loss will be sorely felt.

Mr. Wells doubtless describes conditions as they have been in the past when he says that the efforts of the committee to improve local transportation conditions have received "little or no consideration," and that such recommendations as "have been made have been generally ignored or denied," and that those in power have made their decisions "in advance of hearing any recommendations or arguments" from the committee.

That the committee has made little headway in getting a hearing for the propositions for the improvement of the service does not by any means prove that there is no longer a field of usefulness for the body.

The committee has served a useful purpose in that it has helped to focus public attention upon the problem of local street railway transportation. It has at least been instrumental in voicing the well-nigh universal demand for a more efficient service. It has also, in some instances, succeeded in helping the street railway to improve its service. If the committee's efforts are not to be in vain, it is not unlikely that its existence has been fully justified by preventing the coming of a crisis like the one we now have.

The campaign for a five-cent fare may well be looked upon as only the preliminary stage. The settlement in favor of a lower fare, which was the only concession in this city, is a good omen to make itself effectively heard in the near future, and the home rule committee is needed to help keep the agitation alive and speed the coming of the desired change.

It may be suggested that the home rule committee might find itself in a position to do of greater usefulness to the community if it would limit its efforts to the fares and fares only. At the present time the role of the committee to the mind of public trustees are so vague and uncertain as to make it impossible to know exactly what part it is expected to play in the conduct of the transportation system.

THE CASE OF GREECE

Greece is up against a serious undertaking in trying to defeat Kemal, the leader of the Turkish nationalists. This Kemal has been threatening terrible things to the allies for over a year. He has promised to whip the Greeks, then to drive the British out of Palestine, the French out of Syria and the Italians out of Adalia in Asia Minor. It was the treaty of Sevres that stripped Turkey of her possessions. It annulled her claims to Egypt and part of Morocco and reduced her holdings in Asia to a relatively small tract between Constantinople in the west and the Armenia-Arabia line in the east.

The sultan was about to sign the treaty when Kemal raised the standard of rebellion, gathered an army and located at Angora in Anatolia. Kemal is now the real ruler of Turkey and with an army of 200,000 he is beyond easy reach of the allies. Kemal spurns the provisions of the Sevres treaty and wants the sultan deposed from the headship of the Mohammedan church.

When the Greeks were led by Venizelos, the allied premier, Lloyd George and Millerand, urged them to fight and defeat Kemal. In all probability the favors lavished on Greece were given with the understanding that she was to wage war against Kemal.

Marshall Foch, said the Greeks could defeat Kemal with less than half a million men. That indicates that this military proposition is more serious than most people imagined. The Greeks met Kemal in June of last year and were defeated, in battle. In a second attempt the Greeks have suffered another defeat, more serious than the first. In her present campaign, Greece hoped to defeat the Turks and assert her sway over the territory ceded in the treaty of Sevres, but the best military experts in Europe expressed the opinion that she would not defeat the Turks. In their present entrenched position, it appears that in the recent battle, the Kemal forces were aided by the Bolsheviks. We are confident, however, that when Greece gets her forces together she will be able to vanquish the Turks; but it will be a very difficult undertaking, and as this is a cause in which the allies are interested, they should aid Greece in forcing this dictator to surrender.

BE KIND TO ANIMALS

We are coming to have an almost ceaseless procession of "days" and "weeks" devoted to promoting one worthy cause or another. In this way it has been sought to impress upon the public mind some lesson it should learn, or to gather funds to finance some movement for making the world better or happier.

Beginning next Monday comes "Be Kind to Animals" week. It does not come to us as a novelty. It has been annually observed for a number of years. It deserves to have wide recognition.

It was in Massachusetts, in 1858, that the second society for the prevention of cruelty to animals in this country was organized. Since its formation the people of the state have been foremost in every movement that had for its object the promotion of greater regard for the feelings and comfort of our four-footed friends.

There is yet much that needs to be accomplished, however, in teaching people that they have a duty to perform to their faithful friends of the animal world. Soon the annual exodus from the cities to the country and the seashore for the vacation period will begin. As usual, many families will thoughtlessly leave their pets behind them to starve or depend upon the kindness of neighbors for the food to keep them alive. A general observance of "Be Kind to Animals Week" ought to serve to make thoughtless or heartless people who desert their pets more mindful of the possible suffering to which they may thus subject the creatures.

It would seem that the statement of Mayor Perry D. Thompson that the city paid out as much for charity relief in the last three months as it did in all of 1920, might cause the municipal council to consider the wisdom of doing some work for some of those whom it is feeding.

Judge Wright shows a commendable desire to make the police furnished with information regarding the state of the city and the law, by whether it is doing anything to make them any more law-abiding.

It would have passed a law forbidding street hawkers from charging more than half fare for passengers who are carried to and from the station where the hawkers are to be taken.

The council has also passed a law forbidding street hawkers from charging more than half fare for passengers who are carried to and from the station where the hawkers are to be taken.

The council has also passed a law forbidding street hawkers from charging more than half fare for passengers who are carried to and from the station where the hawkers are to be taken.

SEEN AND HEARD

You'll never be lucky if you have the idea that luck is against you.

Few of the world's sins are committed by those who don't know better.

Returned to Switzerland, Charles might get a job as a hole in a Swiss cheese.

"The early bird gets the worm," remarked Jack O'—as he gathered in the still.

The Detroit Free Press rises to remark that when cigars are outlawed it will not doubt be possible to buy them for non-smoking purposes.

Making Mistakes

To railroad officials, engineering experts and directors of great enterprises, Henry Herberman is known as the man who achieved the impossible. To the general public he is not known at all. Yet he is ten times a millionaire and owns great manufacturing plants. "I never knew a man," he says, "who makes mistakes. I am always suspicious of a man who doesn't make mistakes, because it shows he is afraid of taking chances, that he is playing safe instead of using his brain."

To Harbors

This is written in honor of the harbor of Millisville, Mass., who, as is widely reported, is helping to restore normalcy by reducing the prices of haircuts and shaves. It is well that normally should start thus at the seat of authority—the harbor chair. There all issues affecting the nation are settled by the harbor himself whose opinion the citizens, lying helpless in the chair, accept as final and unassailable. The harbor's policy is to be bound to accept. As Shadrach sang in "Arabian Nights":

"The trades altogether are like a necklace, and the harbor is the chief pearl of the strings."

And how full of wisdom is the harbor's own head! He knoweth everything—Babe Ruth's batting average; and the time Man of War made in his last race; and what is good for lumber; and the best way to make homework. Also, what will redecorate any hall spot except his own! Nor is he a mere encyclopedia. He is a man of courageous opinion which he is prepared to give on all matters and on all occasions, unlike those spineless creatures whose opinions blow hot or cold for the pleasure of their respective customers. In paying tribute thus to harbors in general, we have ventured far afield from the original proposition. The harbor of Millisville, who is blating the trail to normalcy, may his tribe increase!

Recalled?

Ever go a-fishing?
After wishing
A week or two for spring;
When an April morning
Without waiting
Brought warmth and everything?

When you got the spade out,
And just made out
To dig ten worms from that hole;
Then spent an hour in hating,
Grumbling, grunting,
To find your fishing pole?

Then hot, and full of fury,
Grabbed in a hurry
A sandwich and some pie,
And looked it to the river,
All a-quiver,
Three-pounders in each eye?

Then sat, and sat, and waited;
Meditated;
And used up all your bait;
And caught three little catfish
And one flatfish;
And went home tired, quite late!

Remember? Birds were singing,
Maples flinging
The blossoms down on you?
And you were fishing, dozing,
And snoring?
Recall it? Sure you do!

—ALFRED ARNOLD.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

The statement of a defendant in the police court, that he could "lick liquor in lots of places in Lowell," was called to the attention of a member of the liquor squad. "Sure he knows where he can get it," was the reply, "and we know where he can get it, too. But we can't get it. He can get it to imagine that it is a simple matter to nail these illicit distributors of booze. But they don't stop to realize that we aren't working under the federal law with all its ways for obtaining evidence and convictions. We're working under the state law, which is quite a different thing."

It was explained that the law in Massachusetts, which is all the authorization the local officers have on which to act, provides that in the possession of liquor is for his own use. The burden of proof is on the arresting officer. Either the man has to be captured red-handed in a sale, or traffic to and from his establishment has to be shown clearly enough to convince the court that sales are being made. The men who sell and on cannot be searched, unless a warrant has been secured. From this may not be searched without a search warrant. Business in bar-rooms is largely done through "hippers," who carry the booze in their pocket, and pour out a drink when a customer comes in. If an officer enters the place, armed with a search warrant, he finds nothing. If he is to search for liquor, he has to use a warrant for hipper. And even if he does find liquor on him, there is no way to prove that the owner of the establishment is responsible. When liquor is actually kept behind the bar, it is usually in a dispenser or in glasses. If officers enter the place, whatever hard stuff is on hand, is instantly swept into the sink, tripping over the bar, while a pretended search and seizure is going on by the police. The police are not to be fooled by this kind of a trick. A man who was in a bar-room was induced to give up to members of the rabid squad, a bottle containing Scotch which he had in his pocket. When the case came before the court the man declared that he was doing nothing for the proprietor, and that he had the liquor for his personal use. He was discharged from the court while the proprietor of the establishment also came unscathed, although the police suspected that the "hipper" was really a "bookkeeper," and there are loopholes in the state law which render the task of the liquor officer working for the city a difficult one. The federal officer, on the other hand, has a far more radical law behind him, and can convert his man whether the latter is possessed of whiskey or not, into a "hipper" for sale for his own private consumption. It is a federal sin if you have a drink for yourself; but it is a state sin only if you deal with others in the hard stuff.

CONFIRMS LARGE CLASS

Bishop Lawrence Admits 67

New Communicants in St.

Anne's Church

Speaking at a confirmation class of 67 members in St. Anne's church yesterday morning, Right Rev. William Lawrence, bishop of the diocese of Eastern Massachusetts, compared the newly admitted communicants of the church to soldiers in the front line trenches in time of war. A congregation that completely filled the church listened to the bishop's address.

Continuing his address to the confirmation class, he said:

"When we entered the world war, the young men went to the front while others remained at home in the rear. It is because they often do not see any difference. If the people who go out of this church today were seen to be much finer than those outside, then these outside would want to come in also. A great many of the finest, most chivalrous characters of this city and any city have no interest in the church and are outside of the church, although they are interested in Christ and follow Him as some of us fall to follow Him. Why? Is it not partly that we do not give to them that fine type of Christian character, that spirit of sacrifice which leads them to say that those things come only through the church?"

"I have known St. Anne's parish longer than most of you. A generation has come and gone. It is a noble work the parish has done. I appeal to you, not only of the confirmation class, but the men and the women who are 20 and 30 years of age, to take hold of St. Anne's and by your character and devotion make it finer and stronger than it ever has been. The parish church is the power house of the city. As the congregation goes out, each one carrying the light from off the altar, they carry with them the power of Christian devotion and the warmth and enthusiasm of Christ Himself."

"The future of St. Anne's is in the hands of you who are from 15 to 30. See to it that you be soldiers of Christ and faithful servants."

GARDEN PLANNING

Garden News Story From the Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture and Home Economics

Gardeners who have not worked out a definite plan will do well to have one in mind before starting to plant. All vegetables should be planted in long rows rather than in raised beds. This saves both labor and space and prevents the escape of moisture. Tall growing vegetables should be placed on the north side of the plot so they will not shade the smaller plants. In well cultivated plots root crops can be grown in rows 14 inches apart. Peas, beans and plants of that size can be planted in the rows with the other vegetables. The rows of peas and beans need only 20 inches between rows. Early quick growing crops like lettuce, radishes and onion sets can be planted in the rows with the other vegetables. The rows of peas and beans need only 20 inches between rows. Early quick growing crops like lettuce, radishes and onion sets can be planted in the rows with the other vegetables. The rows of peas and beans need only 20 inches between rows. Early quick growing crops like lettuce, radishes and onion sets can be planted in the rows with the other vegetables.

The present season is fully two weeks in advance of last year. Those who have not already done so will do well to plant peas, radishes, lettuce, spinach and beets this week. It is not wise to postpone the purchase of garden seeds any longer. Already many of the most desirable varieties have been exhausted in some places. Their prompt receipt in a thin layer of soil, and the early start in important in small gardens that every inch of ground should be utilized. In order to be sure of uniform high quality in seeds they should be purchased direct from some reputable seed house.

Most back yard gardeners fail to take advantage of the possibilities of raising two and three crops on one acre during the season. Late beans, beets, lettuce and turnips can easily follow early crops of peas, radishes, lettuce and radishes. Tomatoes can be set or corn and beans planted between rows of peas two weeks before the vines are to be pulled out and by doing this the early crop will be harvested and out of the way before the space is needed by the permanent crop.

CARPENTERS' STRIKE IN WOBURN ENDS

WOBURN, April 11.—The carpenters' strike, which has existed for more than three months, was settled last evening and the 500 carpenters involved returned to work today at 95 cents an hour. The strike was due to an announcement by the employers compelling the Middlesex District Carpenters and Builders' association that the pay of their employees, which had been $1 an hour for a year or more, would be reduced to 90 cents an hour.

The employers' association is made up of employers in Woburn, Reading, Stoneham, Wakefield, Melrose, Lexington and Waverley. A delegation had a conference here Saturday evening with representatives of the employers and it was agreed to settle their differences by arbitration, Mayor sent "Liberty" one boy being attired in the Greek national costume, while the girls were neatly dressed in costumes representing Columbia, Uncle Sam and a Red Cross nurse.

The parade started in Lewis street and went over the following route: Broadway to Adams, to Market, to Dutton, to Thordike, to Middlesex, to Central, to Merrimack as far as the Association hall, where it was dismissed by the chief marshal.

Associate hall was elaborately decorated, white and blue predominating in the color scheme. Large streamers of white and blue extended from the four corners of the ceiling to the center chandelier, from which hung numerous American and Greek flags. The balcony was draped with white bunting and blue streamers, while the windows were hung with white lace curtains, surmounted with American flag rosettes. The stage background consisted of two large American flags with a large Greek flag in the center, while over the Greek colors hung a large portrait of Constantine Rhigas, poet and martyr.

The hall was crowded to the doors and it was figured that at least 1000 people were unable to get in. The exercises opened with a special service conducted by Rev. Nicholas Menides and during which the hymn to the Madonna, sung by the Greek soldiers in the 5th century, was rendered by the school children. American and Greek patriotic hymns were sung by the children and then there was an opening address by Peter Spoulis, principal of the Greek parochial school, who briefly explained the nature of the celebration and introduced as the first speaker, Dr. John K. Gatsopoulos, who represented the Greeks of Ephesus at the Greek conference at Paris.

Dr. Gatsopoulos' Address

Dr. Gatsopoulos first addressed the gathering in their own language and then spoke in English, his address being in part as follows:

"Greece, who greeted with unbounded joy the proclamation of independence of 1830, then sinking under the yoke of the Turk, felt a great hope and saw a ray of light dawn upon her long night of servitude following the war of the revolution in 1821.

"There are many things which naturally tend to make an international sympathy between Americans and Greeks. In the first place the idea of a common civilization, which binds the educated minds of all countries to the mighty memories of ancient Greece. Again, the principles of civil liberty, constitutional government and popular legislation were first brought forth and developed by the genius, as remarkable for political wisdom for adoption of the fine arts of the Greek people.

"Again, the American republic borrowed from ancient Greece the principle of local self government, though the glory of perfecting it belongs to the founders of the American democracy. And it affords me, as it does thousands of other Greeks, great pleasure to emphasize that Greece during the revolutionary war and after never forgot the noble sympathy manifested towards her by the American nation.

"Full of gratitude and friendship, Greece has always watched with the deepest interest the wonderful progress achieved by a people to which she feels attached by ties that are indissoluble.

"When Greece was fighting for her independence against odds that were tremendous, beset by troubles and sorrow, abandoned by the powerful of the earth; at the moment when she was rising from the night of the Moslem servitude, Henry Clay, that splendid Virginian patriot and orator, arose in the house of representatives and spoke words which fill to this day the hearts of every man of Italian blood with everlasting gratitude.

"Said Henry Clay, on that memorable occasion: 'And hast come to this? Are we so humbled, so low, so debased that we dare not express our sympathy for suffering Greece, that we dare not articulate our detestation of the brutal excesses of which she has been the bleeding victim, lest we might offend some one or more of their imperial and royal majesties? If, gentlemen, we are afraid to act on such a subject, suppose, Master Chairman, that we unite in a humble petition addressed to their majesties beseeching them that of their gracious condescension they would allow us to express our feelings and our sympathies. How shall it run? We, the representatives of the free people of the United States of America, humble ourselves before the (majesties of your imperial and royal majesties and supplicate that if your imperial and royal majesty cannot go through the disgusting recital, My lips have not yet learned to pronounce the synophonic language of a degraded slave.' America's Sympathy

"The indignation of the famous American congressman is apparent in these foregoing words. Along parallel lines spoke one of the most eloquent men ever heard in America—the illustrious Daniel Webster, and also spoke Edward Everett, the great classical scholar of his time. And then there was Dr. Samuel Howe, the great Bostonian. He not only sympathized with us but he joined in our battle against the Turks. The names of Daniel Webster and Dr. Howe are engraved with golden letters in the hearts of Greeks everywhere.

"The qualities displayed during the conflict of 1821-1827 secretly fell short of the old renown of the Greek nation shown at Marathon and Salamis. I am sure you will agree that in the history of the human race you will not find a more illustrious chapter. You all remember Leonidas of the imperishable fame and his immortal three hundred. In 1821 another Leonidas, no less worthy of deathless prominence, appeared with his little band, appeared on the bridge of Alamanos. He was Athanasios Diaconis, brave as Achilles and as beautiful as Apollo. Among the first to fall for the independence of Greece, near Thermopylae was the gallant Diaconis, who with a few followers like the Spartan Leonidas, stood against the hordes of Omar Vranitis at the entrance to the same narrow pass. All were slain, for they were overwhelmingly outnumbered by the Turks. Diaconis was at first taken prisoner.

"When questioned by the Turkish bay with regard to the inscription, he replied: 'All Greece is resolved to be free or perish in the attempt.' His life was offered him on the condition that he would enter the Turkish service. Of course he refused. 'I will put you to death,' said the pasha, 'unless you join me.' 'Greece,' answered the hero, 'will lose but one; she has many a Diaconis besides me!' With characteristic cruelty the Turks tortured him. They resolved to impale him alive and with the refinement of torture which reminds us of the most awful tragedy ever executed on this earth they made him bear his instrument of torture of his death. As he walked erect and handsome as an ancient god to the place of his execution, he cast a look about him upon the face of nature, all smiling with the beauty of spring—strange contrast to the bloody work of human hands—and repeated a famous old ballad of the land, 'Behold the time that Charon chose to take me from the living; the boughs are blooming now with flowers, the heath puts forth its herbage.'

"And then for three hours he bore with unshaken soul the agonies which brought about his death.

"The present campaign is the final one and Greece, fighting alone to expel the Turk from Europe, will enter Constantinople to plant the cross in the church of St. Sophia, the church of our ancestors."

Polish People Pleased

At the close of his address Dr. Gatsopoulos read the following message from the Polish people of Lowell:

"In the centennial anniversary of independence of the great nation of Hellenes, which has given the beginning of civilization to all the world and to the present day draws from its treasures of knowledge, we, the representatives of the Polish District of the Gymnastic and Physical Culture organization, inclined at the regaining independence of Poland, cherished for so long, extend to the immortal descendants of the Spartans, our deep and sincere appreciation and hearty joy in this great day of historical anniversary."

(Signed) JOHN BARDZIK, Pres. FRANK KOTOSOWICZ, Sec.

Other speakers were Rev. Nestor Sosulski, who spoke at length of ancient Greece; Mayor Henry D. Thompson, ex-Mayor Dennis J. Murphy, Principal Henry H. Harris of the high school, and Rev. Appleton Granits of St. Anne's church, who all congratulated the local Greek colony for the success of the observance. The celebration was in the hands of the following officers of the community: Christos Zlogos, president; Demetrios Athanasios, secretary; Costas Chachus, treasurer; School committee, Harry Houlis, chairman; Peter Patourakis, secretary; Charles Deros, John Avlenos, Spyros Vrookos, Auditors' committee, Adil Dails, Vasillos Ganas and James Kirkiles. Board of directors, Demetrios Kenos, vice president; Apostolos Kukos, Aristonanis Christos Spiliatopoulos, John Vercas, Soterios Demopoulos, Evasthios Pallas, Vatos Papavasilou, Athanasios Kyriakou, George Koutirros, Stefanis Kouklos and Peter Tsaffaras.

Loud is Held Without Bail

police said, that he carried a loaded revolver when he left home. Kiernan told the police that he expected Loud at his house Saturday night, but Loud did not come.

Four 45-calibre bullets were found in Preston's body at the autopsy performed by Medical Examiner Roscoe Perley of Melrose. A search of Loud's home revealed several bullets of similar calibre, the police assert, but they found no weapon.

Loud returned home about 10:30 p.m., his wife informed the authorities, and told her that two men whom he met on the road had forced him to surrender his automobile. There were two bruises on his head, she said, and she asked him to summon a physician and also to notify the police of the holdup, but he complied with neither request.

George D. Anthony of Lynnfield reported to the Wakefield chief of police late Saturday night that as he was returning home he met an closed automobile going at high speed. As it approached it slowed down, he said, and a man who opened the door of the car called out, "Is everything all right?"

Several persons who were asked yesterday to give their versions of the shooting said that they had heard conversation between Preston and someone on the road. One woman said she heard shots.

Patrolman Preston had been conducting a campaign against persons who parked automobiles at night in empty spots in Lowell road, and had brought several persons to court charged with disorderly conduct.

Loud was arrested last summer in the Metropolitan park reservation for disorderly conduct, was convicted and fined.

Dist. Atty. Tafts said last night that the authorities had established beyond a doubt that a woman had been with Loud at the time Preston attempted to arrest him.

Frederick M. Libby told the police that as he was walking home last night on Lowell road he heard a man's voice say, "Come on, come on." Then, he said he heard a woman's scream, followed by several revolver shots.

Held Without Bail

MALDEN, April 11.—The killing of Patrolman James A. Preston at Wakefield Saturday night, was charged as murder today against Clarence M. Loud of Melrose in the district court here. Loud pleaded not guilty and at the request of District Attorney Nathan Tafts, was held without bail for a hearing on April 21.

Loud had been under arrest since early yesterday morning, when he was apprehended at his home by officers who obtained his name from a memorandum found inside the cap of the dead policeman. With his name was that of "Alice" Deane, a woman street, Somerville, but efforts to locate the woman, who was the subject of that notation were unsuccessful.

The district attorney said the authorities were particularly interested in establishing the identity of the woman believed to have been Loud's companion, in learning how Loud sustained wounds on his head, and in finding the revolver with which the shooting was done. The name and address in the officer's notebook along with Loud's was indefinite, Mr. Tafts said, and he gave no indication that he believed an arrest was imminent. Chief of Police Pollard of Wakefield, however, indicated that the woman might be in custody within a few hours.

The Wakefield police today dragged the scene of the murder in search of the revolver.

Three fines of $100 each were imposed in the police court this morning in cases where charges of illegal devices in liquor were preferred. Another liquor case, that of Eli T. Stevens, who conducts a drug store at Lincoln square, was continued to April 18 in bonds of $200. Stevens is charged with illegal sale, Louis Paradis pleaded guilty to illegal sale, and paid a fine of $100.

Peter Courcy, who runs a candy and soda store on Thordike street, pleaded not guilty to a charge of illegal sale. The members of the liquor squad, according to testimony, sent a man to the defendant's place, where a bottle of Jamaica ginger was secured, together with a bottle of ginger ale. Four dozen more bottles of the ginger were discovered after a subsequent search of the establishment. The man who brought the Jamaica ginger and ginger ale took the stand and said that Courcy charged him 50 cents for the former, and 10 cents for the latter. He paid a $10 bill in payment, and received 40 cents in change. He denied supplying to Courcy a bottle of ginger ale, and a bottle of his father's gin, and pressed upon the storekeeper to furnish the ginger to relieve the latter's cramped money in distress. The latter's claim, Courcy in defense said that the man came into his store, and bought a bottle of ginger ale. Then after seating himself, he began to bewail his father's indisposition, according to the defendant, who said he asked why he didn't have something to relieve the latter at a drug store.

The main testimony, however, said he didn't have enough money to procure the ginger ale, and a drug store. Finally said Courcy, he sold him a bottle of Jamaica ginger and a bottle of gin. He had never sold the stuff before at his establishment. He had it there because he was among the stock of another store which he bought out and removed to his present place of business. A friend of the defendant took the stand and presented the alleged details of the transaction, relating how he brought Courcy to sell the ginger, and then and the man's father, an Irishman, appeared, counsel for Courcy asked the court to consider how great a thing is human sympathy, and asked for a dismissal

Stevens is charged with illegal sale, Louis Paradis pleaded guilty to illegal sale, and paid a fine of $100.

Peter Courcy, who runs a candy and soda store on Thordike street, pleaded not guilty to a charge of illegal sale. The members of the liquor squad, according to testimony, sent a man to the defendant's place, where a bottle of Jamaica ginger was secured, together with a bottle of ginger ale. Four dozen more bottles of the ginger were discovered after a subsequent search of the establishment. The man who brought the Jamaica ginger and ginger ale took the stand and said that Courcy charged him 50 cents for the former, and 10 cents for the latter. He paid a $10 bill in payment, and received 40 cents in change. He denied supplying to Courcy a bottle of ginger ale, and a bottle of his father's gin, and pressed upon the storekeeper to furnish the ginger to relieve the latter's cramped money in distress. The latter's claim, Courcy in defense said that the man came into his store, and bought a bottle of ginger ale. Then after seating himself, he began to bewail his father's indisposition, according to the defendant, who said he asked why he didn't have something to relieve the latter at a drug store.

The main testimony, however, said he didn't have enough money to procure the ginger ale, and a drug store. Finally said Courcy, he sold him a bottle of Jamaica ginger and a bottle of gin. He had never sold the stuff before at his establishment. He had it there because he was among the stock of another store which he bought out and removed to his present place of business. A friend of the defendant took the stand and presented the alleged details of the transaction, relating how he brought Courcy to sell the ginger, and then and the man's father, an Irishman, appeared, counsel for Courcy asked the court to consider how great a thing is human sympathy, and asked for a dismissal

Widespread Unemployment In Cities Relieves Farm Labor Shortage

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 11.—Widespread unemployment in cities has created a drift back to the farm and relieved the farm labor shortage brought about during the war, reports of federal and state employment bureaus reveal.

Farm hands in the great grain belt of the central states are reported plentiful at wages greatly reduced as compared with a year ago.

Farmers, who for several years have been forced to grant almost any concessions to labor to bring their crops through, are in a position this year to dictate terms of employment, according to employment agency officials. Then too, the farmer faces the problem this year of holding down the cost of production because of the low prices of farm products and generally is trying to get along with as little help as possible.

Farm wages in Kansas this year average $10 a month, board and lodging, or about $20 less than a year ago, the free employment bureau in that state reports. W. H. Lewis, Missouri labor commissioner, declares there probably will not be any shortage of farm labor this year and wages probably will be much lower than in any year since 1916.

In North Dakota a survey disclosed that farm labor for spring and summer work was plentiful at from $30 to $40 a month as compared with wages of from $50 to $60 a month paid last year.

In Illinois the state department of labor reports farm hands going back to the farms and accepting the cut in wages.

Kansas farmers are demanding experienced men after worrying along for several years with any sort of labor that presented itself, according to officials of the Kansas Free Employment Bureau. Experienced applicants are being located as fast as they apply, however, while there are about sixteen applicants for every job open in other lines of industry, the records show.

The bureau warns that farm hands who venture to decline how many hours a day they are willing to work stand a poor chance of getting jobs.

The general scale recognized in Kansas, the principal growing state, according to bureau officials, runs: For experienced hands, from $25 to $50 a month (according to experience) for single men, and from $10 to $25 for married men who are willing to live on farms with their families. Last year, the peak year of farm wages, the scale ran $10 to $25 for single men and $20 to $30 for married men.

The immediate prospect is that harvest wages this year will be around $5 a day as compared with $7 last year, the Kansas Bureau reports.

To Adjust Mesopotamia Oil Dispute

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Adjustment of the dispute between the United States and Great Britain, growing out of the San Remo oil agreement concerning Mesopotamia, has been suggested informally to the United States it was learned today officially. The plan proposed was in a memorandum reaching the state department, but not made in such manner as to place the necessity for decision upon this government until more definite representations are received. It was proposed that the United States appoint a commissioner to confer with the British petroleum commission in the belief that such direct negotiations would lead to a more speedy adjustment than might be expected through usual diplomatic exchanges.

Many Disobey Strike Call

NEW BEDFORD, April 11.—Despite the strike call issued to all workmen affiliated with the building trades council, union men of all crafts were working today on several of the construction jobs where all the work is under cover. On other jobs some of the men obeyed the strike call for today, while others are working. Owing to the wet weather there is no work today on outside construction, and it was impossible to determine the extent of the strike among men employed in the building trades. On several of the jobs the contractors are maintaining the old scale of wages. The strike was called when the unions refused to accept the cut of 20 per cent proposed by the master builders.

German Military Forces in Upper Silesia

The entire force, numbering 26 battalions, with a full complement of machine guns and other arms and munitions, is ready for action the messages assert. Most of the German functionaries in Upper Silesia are alleged to be involved in a plot to employ force, in case the German claims for Upper Silesia are rejected by the allied supreme council. The Germans had a considerable majority in the total plebiscite vote, but important sections voted in favor of Poland.

Recover Napoleon "Love Beads," Stolen From Louvre; Bring $25 in Curio Shop

PICTURE SHOWS SECTION OF YE ANTIQUE SHOPPE, CURIO STORE, WHERE NAPOLEON NECKLACE, FOR WHICH A REWARD OF $150,000 HAD BEEN OFFERED BY THE FRENCH GOVERNMENT, LAY FOR MONTHS UNRECOGNIZED ONLY TO FINALLY BE PURCHASED BY TOURISTS. ALSO PRETTY CLERK, WHO HAD SHOWN THE BEADS TO DOZENS OF CUSTOMERS, APPEARS SMILING IN SPITE OF THE MEAN TRICK PLAYED BY FATE.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 5.—The stolen amber "love necklace," gift of Napoleon Bonaparte to Josephine, has been recovered.

And with its finding is revealed a tale as intriguing as any of the historic jewel mysteries.

Some 25 years ago the necklace was stolen from the Louvre in Paris.

An international search was started. The French chamber of deputies offered a reward of $150,000 for its recovery. The French secret service was sent on the trail. But no trace could be found of the historic necklace. And as the years went by its disappearance was forgotten by all but a few secret service detectives and some experts on antiques.

Sold for $25

About six months ago the beads found their way to Ye Antique Shoppe, a curio store in Chinatown here. So little attention was paid it that there is but slight information at hand regarding the identity of the individual who peddled it. It is believed, however, to have been brought into port by a French sailor who sold it without any realization of its value.

And so the Bonaparte beads, unrecognized by tourists and owners, was placed on display in a modest show case with a price tag of $25 stuck behind it. In the assortment of valuable scarabs and cameos it was generally overlooked.

Finally, a few weeks ago, a New York couple, tourists in California, bought it.

Jeweler Recognizes Necklace

The remainder of the story has been gathered from correspondence, chiefly with the Tiffany Company of New York, according to the police reports here.

Returning home the tourists went to a jewelry firm in Malden Lane. They inquired whether or not the beads were worth the $25 paid for them. They

MRS. REIFENSTEIN, AGED 67, GAINS 25 POUNDS

Declares She Would Like to Put a Bottle of Tanlac in the Hands of Every Sick Man, Woman and Child in This Country—Never Saw Its Equal

"I am sixty-seven years of age, but in all my experience I have never known a medicine like Tanlac. Think of it! At my age to gain twenty-five pounds in weight, but that is just what I have done," said Mrs. Emma Reifenstein of No. 337 Webster avenue, Syracuse, N. Y.

"If I had it in my power," she continued, "I would put a bottle of Tanlac in the hands of every sick man, woman and child in this country, for I know what this wonderful medicine would do for them. For almost two years I was almost a nervous wreck. I did not dare to leave the house or even go up town unless my husband went with me. I was afraid to even cross the street and had a feeling of dread all of the time."

"My stomach was weak and easily upset. For days at a time I would go without solid food. I could not rest at night to do any good and felt tired and worn out all of the time. Some days I could hardly drag myself across the room and was so weak and miserable I was ready to give up."

"My health is fine now and I eat anything I want and never have a touch of indigestion. I have never slept better than I do now. My recovery is the talk of our neighborhood, as it was generally believed I could not last but a few weeks longer. This grand medicine has brought me health and happiness and I just can't say enough in its praise."

were amazed when, a few moments later a price of $50,000 was offered for the necklace.

Going to the house of the Tiffany they made similar inquiry.

It was then that they learned that the beads, when placed under a powerful microscope bore the engraved words: "Napoleon to Josephine."

They were offered $55,000 and accepted the sum.

The Tiffany firm, it is understood, has turned the beads back to the French government.

And so the famous amber "love necklace" has been recovered, though the mystery surrounding its various adventures remains still unsolved.

MRS. EMMA REIFENSTEIN
337 Webster Ave., Syracuse, N. Y.

Mr. J. Reifenstein, in commenting on his wife's statement, said: "Yes, her recovery has been a happy surprise to us all. A few weeks ago I had no idea she would be able to pull through, but now she is in better health than I have ever seen her and the credit is due to Tanlac. We have been married fifty-two years today and I don't believe I have ever seen her looking any better."

Tanlac is sold in Lowell by Green's drug store, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative, by Wright Drug Co., Billerica, Mass., Snow's Pharmacy, Concord, Mass., and by the leading druggists in every town.

Former Empress Dead

at frequent intervals, each sapping her vitality and sapping the measures taken by specialists to restore her health. When her son, former Prince Joachim, committed suicide in Berlin last July, she was in such serious condition that the news of his death was kept from her for a long time, and it is said she never learned her son killed himself.

Early last autumn, the former empress's condition gradually became worse, and on several occasions her children were called to Doorn, but her strength was such that she rallied bravely when the end was believed imminent. Since the first of this year, it had been known that she was gradually sinking.

Former Emperor William and Prince Adolphus were at the bedside when the former empress died. They had been called by Dr. Haesner, who attended the former empress throughout her residence in Holland.

Plans for Funeral
LONDON, April 11.—Funeral services over the body of the late former Empress Augusta Victoria of Germany will be held at the House of Doorn tomorrow, and will be attended by only members of her family, says an Amsterdam dispatch to the Central News. The remains will be taken to Potsdam on Wednesday, and another funeral service will be held there.

Noted for Charitable Work
The German empress, Augusta Victoria, Queen of Prussia, was notable chiefly for her lively interest in charitable work and her efforts to relieve the distress of the poor. It has been said of her that she was not a gifted or especially graceful woman and that she cared more for the simple duties of her home life than for royal functions. It is not known that she exercised any considerable influence politically or that she desired to do so. Her talents seemed, instead, to be directed to the task of becoming a helpful wife and a devoted mother to her six sons and one daughter. That she achieved this aim, Emperor William frequently attested. He once described her as "the ideal of the virtues of a German princess. She is," he declared, "to whom I owe that I am able to bear the weighty responsibilities of my position in a joyful spirit."

Concerning the attitude of the empress toward the war little is known. There has been nothing to indicate that she differed from her consort in the German ambition for world domination. Some indication of her point of view was given in her reply in July, 1913, to a letter written by the wife of the Dutch minister of war. In responding, the empress declared that Germany repeatedly had manifested her readiness for peace, which she declared, had not been entertained by the opposing powers.

That she subscribed to the contention of military leaders that Germany was fighting a defensive war, was shown by a statement she issued at the beginning of the great conflict in which she said that "Germany was arming itself for a fight, which it did not cause or begin and which it is carrying on only to defend itself." In this appeal she asked German women to aid in caring for the German wounded. Numerous instances in which the empress visited German hospitals and expressed lively sympathy for the wounded soldiers have been reported during the war. On one occasion she was said to have broken down at the sight of great numbers of the German wounded sent home after one of the great battles in 1918.

For more than ten years the empress suffered in health and this was attributed to a disease of the heart but, after treatment at German watering places she recovered her normal health.

Her sympathy with underpaid workers of Germany was disclosed on a visit which she paid some years ago to an exhibition of home industries in Berlin where it was stated that she was deeply moved by the evidence she saw there of the fact that many German workers earn only starvation wages. "What can be done to stop this misery," she inquired.

Her tenderness as a mother was revealed during the illness of her second son Prince Eitel whom she attended day and night. Arriving at the house where he was under physicians' care at 5 a. m. one morning she refused to leave anyone for fear of disturbing him and, with her maid, walked up and down for an hour in the wintry morning until the doors were opened by the servants.

One of the stories told of her is that she enjoyed visiting schools in country districts, selecting one of the pupils and promising the child to fulfill any wish the child might express. A disconcerting instance happened when she did this in Alsace where the schools were being Germanized and the French language suppressed. A little girl, receiving the promise of the empress to grant her wish, asked that her schoolmates be allowed to study the French language. The empress was taken aback but French lessons were given in that school afterward.

Born October 22, 1838 at Doltz, Augusta Victoria was the oldest daughter of Grand Duke Frederick of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Augustenburg and ranked as a princess of Schleswig-Holstein. Her early childhood was spent at Kiel. She was married to the then Prince William of Prussia on February 27, 1881. They had six sons and one daughter.

Arguments are scheduled for this week in the suit brought by Georgia banks to prevent coercion by the Federal Reserve bank of Atlanta, Ga.; the government's appeal in the Western Union cable case involving the right of that company to complete its line to Miami, Fla., without official permit; and a reargument of the American hardwood case, which is a suit to prevent an illegal combination of lumber dealers.

BOSTON RED SOX BEATEN

BOSTON, April 11.—The Newark N. J. International League baseball team defeated the Boston Americans 6 to 5 yesterday, advices from the New Jersey city said today. One costly error followed by ineffective pitching was said to have been the cause of the Boston team's loss of the game. The Newarkites smote Thormahlen with such success that a cleanup was put in the hands of the Boston players virtually from the start.

Turks Continue to Press Greeks

PARIS, April 11.—News from Asia Minor, received in Paris during the past 24 hours indicates that the Turks are pressing the Greeks in the southern sector, as well as to the north in the region of Brusa. Afium-Karabissar, on the Bagdad railway, where the line from Smyrna joins the main line, the capture of which by the Greeks in their offensive was regarded as a significant success, has been retaken by the forces of Mustapha Kemal Ushin. The tenth division is described as having been virtually annihilated, an entire regiment of the Seventh Division captured and the Third Division reduced to two battalions.

A WONDERFUL WAY TO GUARD AGAINST FAILURE AND WANT

How—How Do They Do It. It's Easy Enough to Talk About It But the Thing Is—To Do It

How much are you making? Yes, YOU! Is it three dollars and fifty cents a day? Or is it five dollars, six dollars, seven dollars, ten dollars or fifteen dollars? Are you satisfied with it? Or do you continually grumble—without doing anything to make it more? Maybe you don't know how to GO ABOUT making it more. Lots of people are that way. Millions of them. Yes, millions! And they're not to blame either. They'd do better if they earned more. If they only KNEW HOW—right down in their hearts they're willing enough. They're just as anxious and ambitious, and thrifty, and hopeful, and earnest as they can be. Only they just don't seem to understand the knack of making more money.

The reason you know it can be done—your proof that YOU can do it—is simply the fact that OTHERS are doing it. But you ever stop to think of it? What right have you to believe that you can't do what OTHERS can do? What right have you to continually belittle your own ability in your own mind? Maybe you've been doing this for years, unconsciously or otherwise. Maybe you've been the culprit who's robbed "you" out of the bigger wages you could have earned these many years. It's just like a fellow pilfering from himself, day after day. Now, the whole thing depends upon a fellow's ENERGY. His energy of mind and body. Yes, your energy is the secret of it all. Your energy is the factor that decides whether you will always earn ordinary wages per day or two or three or ten times that amount per day. What is "Energy"? You say? What is the thing—really? You know what the word means, you have often heard it mentioned, even heard it explained by high-sounding talk, perhaps. But even now maybe you haven't figured out what "Energy" really consists of—and why. It's the whole foundation upon which rests every man's individual destiny.

Little Children Brighten Homes

EVERY young couple starting out in life has visions of joyful hours spent before the fireside with healthy, happy children; but, alas, how often young women who long for children are denied that happiness because of some functional derangement which may be corrected by proper treatment. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is just the medicine for these conditions, as the following letters show:

McDonald, Ohio.—"I suffered from a displacement, a weakness, and a great deal of pain. The doctor said nothing would help me but an operation. He said I could never have any children because I was too weak."

"I had often heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so I tried it and it helped me. Now I am in the best of health, do all of my own work, and have a lovely boy six months old. I recommend your medicine to my friends and you have my permission to use this letter."

Mrs. J. C. Emerson, 425 Garfield Ave., McDonald, Ohio.

Mesa, Colorado.—"Ever since I was a young girl I suffered from a great deal of pain every month. I tried different medicines, but only got relief for a short time. I had been married seven years, and wanted a child, but was not well enough. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as it had helped her, and I am happy to say it restored my health, my pains disappeared, and I have a fine little girl. I advise all women who suffer as I did to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

RADICAL ACTION TO FORCE TERMS

France Ready to Act Either
Alone or in Common
With the Allies

Determine to Make Germany
Give Satisfaction on Reparations

PARIS, April 11.—(By the Associated Press)—It is no longer doubted in circles here considered to have the best sources of information that France will, either alone or in common with the allies, take radical action against Germany if satisfactory assurances regarding the payment of reparations are not forthcoming by May 1.

What form the action will take is still only a matter for surmise, but semi-official opinion is that it will be such as to impress the German people as they have not been impressed since the armistice.

The occupation of the Ruhr valley and the entire industrial region of Westphalia is advocated by some. Others are convinced that the French army should this time go to Berlin.

Will Need $35,000 More

Continued
The appropriation of $11,000 to make up a deficit in the Pawtucket school appropriation and one of $7000 for the deficit in the Bartlett school addition appropriation, both of which came out of money originally intended for the Morey school.

In addition to having to make up these deficiencies, the commission was also called upon to spend $20,000 for the Morey school fund to divide material. To make matters worse the original contracts for the erection of the Morey school addition called for an expenditure of $174,769, or $14,000 more than the original appropriation. As a matter of fact, up to the first of March of this year $151,339.19 has been expended.

Commissioner Marchand says that the building will be completed within a month or six weeks at the outside. It will then be furnished and will be ready for occupancy when the school year begins in September. Desks for the teachers have been made by employees of the department but about 250 pupils' desks will have to be purchased.

MATRIMONIAL

A pretty wedding took place Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Scraggs in Collinsville, when their daughter, Miss Eva Scraggs, and Mr. Gustave Franklin were united in the bonds of matrimony. The bride wore white crepe Juliette with trimmings, and carried bridal roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Sarah Scraggs, who was attired in flesh crepe de chine and carried pink roses, carnations and sweet peas. The best man was Mr. Louis Perry. The young couple will make their home in Collinsville.

WILL ENTERTAIN POLISH WOMEN

A group of Polish women who have been attending vocational classes at the public schools during the winter, together with their teachers, will be entertained at the recreation room of the International institute on Thursday evening. The program will include songs by Miss Mary Urbanek and Miss Anna Kolaik; piano solos by Miss Esther Nicholson; and selections by the P. A. A. Mandolin club, of which Miss Nicholson is director. Games and refreshments will also be a part of the evening's entertainment. Miss Helen G. Hutton, head of the institute, is in charge of arrangements for the affair.

SUIT AGAINST CITY

The suit brought by the Richard D. Kimball Co. on Boston for the collection of $5000 alleged due to it from the city of Lowell for the retraining of plans in connection with the construction of the new high school, is on the short list for trial in the superior court of Suffolk county and will be heard either Wednesday or Thursday of this week before Judge Morton or Judge Dubuque. The city will be represented by City Solicitor William D. Regan.

PAWTUCKETVILLE CHURCH

The new Jeanne d'Arc church for the French Catholic residents of Pawtucketville, which is located in Fourth avenue, will open its doors for services next Sunday. The first mass will be at 6:30, the second (for children) will be at 8 o'clock, the third at 9:15 o'clock and the last at 11 o'clock. The celebrants will be Oblate fathers of St. Joseph's.

POLICE RELEASE HARRIS

Man Who "Confessed" to Killing Elwell Repudiated Story

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 11.—Roy Harris was freed from custody today after he had signed a declaration that his confession of complicity in the murder of Joseph B. Elwell in New York last June, was false. Harris swore to the truth of his latest statement before Justice Wesley C. Dudley, in supreme court chambers. No other charge having been preferred against him, he walked out of the court a free man, with his wife, who had been previously released from police station where she had been held as a witness.

Former Governor Charles S. Whitman and Captain Arthur Carey of the New York police department, saw Harris again today in District Attorney Moore's office. They found him still penitent and anxious to clear himself of the murder charge which he had courted for three days in a desire to end his unhappy life by having the state kill him.

Mr. Whitman drew up the repudiation statement which Harris swore to before Justice Dudley.

Harris alleges as his reasons for the hoax that he had been separated from his wife and had met her again only last week and desired to know whether she would be loyal to him were he in serious trouble. He said that if she had not proved "loyal and true blue" he would have gone to the electric chair without regret.

LOUD IS HELD WITHOUT BAIL

Melrose Man Accused of Murdering Officer Preston of Wakefield

Body of Victim Found by Autoists in Lonely Spot on Lowell Road

WAKEFIELD, April 11.—Clarence M. Loud of Melrose was held for murder in the first degree yesterday in connection with the fatal shooting Saturday night of Patrolman James A. Preston, whose body was found by automobilists in a lonely spot on Lowell road.

In the dead patrolman's hand was a lighted flashlight and in his cap, the police said, was a memorandum indicating he had arrested Loud on a statutory charge.

In the cap also was the license number of an automobile that proved to be Loud's. Discovery of the car backed into a wood, with the license plate turned up, led to Loud's arrest early Saturday.

Loud refused to comment on the shooting but the police said he admitted to Sgt. Nathan A. Tufts that he was on the Lowell road Saturday night on his way to visit John Kiernan of this town. He also admitted, the police said, that he had shot Kiernan.

STATE TO ACT AGAINST PONZI

To Be Brought Into State Courts on Charges of Larceny, Says Allen

Bay State Attorney General Obtains Permission From U. S. Atty. Gen.

BOSTON, April 11.—Charles Ponzi's day of reckoning in the state courts on charges of larceny in connection with his broken scheme of high finance that left several thousand investors short of several million dollars, is not to be long delayed because of his federal imprisonment, if state authorities have their way.

Attorney General Allen had obtained from Attorney General Daugherty in a visit to Washington permission to have Ponzi produced in the state courts. Ordinarily federal imprisonment has served as a stay to state prosecutions.

Daniel W. Coakley, counsel for the pseudo-financier, appeared before the state court yesterday.

DAMAGES AWARDED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

In the case of Charles W. Hamilton, a five-year-old boy, suing through his father as his next friend, the jury this morning awarded a verdict of $1100 for conscious suffering as a consequence of an auto accident on Saratoga street, Sept. 2, 1920. The defendant, Joseph Silva, did not contest the case. The evidence in the case showed that the boy's neck was so severely injured that it was necessary to keep the upper part of his body encased in a plaster cast for a considerable period of time.

Charles P. Hamilton, the father of the boy, who sued to recover the amount spent for medical attendance and care for his son, was awarded a verdict of $1000. W. A. Hogan was counsel for the plaintiffs.

STRONG APPEAL FOR IRISH RELIEF

Great Mass Meeting Crowds Opera House to Hear Senator Gore

Able Addresses by the Blind Senator and Major Sampson

Drive Launched for $45,000 as Lowell's Quota in the Fund

In one of the most largely attended and enthusiastic mass meetings of its kind held here in years, the Lowell campaign to raise $45,000 for Irish relief was formally launched at the Lowell Opera House yesterday afternoon.

Hon. Thomas P. Gore, former senator from Oklahoma, and Major Edward J. Sampson of the governor's staff, state field director for the Massachusetts committee on relief in Ireland, were the principal speakers at the occasion, and each treated his subject in a most magnetic manner.

Former Senator Gore, blind in both eyes, nevertheless proved a most eloquent speaker and held the attention of his audience from the moment he arose. He said that Ireland had done more for the world than the world can ever do for Ireland, and without going into the pros and cons of the Irish cause, made a very strong appeal for generosity in the support of the relief movement.

Major Sampson spoke first of the conflicting reports concerning the situation in Ireland which have come to the attention of the committee.

QUESTION MURPHY ON STREET WORK

The board of directors of the chamber of commerce questioned Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy of the department of streets and highways at length at their monthly meeting at the chamber of commerce rooms today. Various phases of street construction in Lowell were discussed at length and there was a general exchange of ideas. City Engineer Stephen Kearney was unable to be present. It was finally agreed that the chamber's street committee should secure from the engineer's office specifications in other cities. A luncheon preceded this noon's meeting.

GRADE CROSSING WILL REMAIN

Railroad Will Not Abolish Dangerous Crossing in Middlesex Street

Supreme Judicial Court Upholds Decree of Grade Crossing Commission

Unless there is a decided improvement in the financial condition of the Boston & Maine railroad or an enactment of new legislation, the grade crossings in Middlesex street and Western avenue will not be abolished for some time to come.

City Solicitor William D. Regan today received notice that the supreme judicial court had affirmed the decree of the grade crossing commission made some years ago, ruling that the financial condition of the road did not warrant abolition of the crossings in question. The full finding in the matter has not yet been received but is expected within a few days.

This is brought to a close a matter which has hung fire since 1909 when

FOYE WILL REJECT ALL CEMENT BIDS

Purchasing Agent Edward H. Foy today announced that he would reject all bids received at his office last week for the furnishing of 4000 barrels of cement for the use of the street and sewer departments this year and would purchase cement only as needed by those departments.

This action follows the receipt of a letter from the directors of the chamber of commerce suggesting that inasmuch as there are indications of a drop in the price of cement in the near future, it would be wise for the city to incorporate in its contract a provision whereby it would benefit by any drop. This has been deemed inadvisable by the purchasing agent because he felt that he would be unable to get any such advantage under such an arrangement. However, by buying by the carload or in similar quantities, he will be able to keep constantly in touch with the market price and benefit thereby.

Mr. Foy today wrote a letter to George F. Woll, secretary-manager of the chamber of commerce, notifying him of the decision, and will later confer with Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy as to the immediate needs of the street and sewer departments as far as cement is concerned. He will then call for bids on whatever amount Mr. Murphy desires for immediate use.

PRINTING CONTRACT AWARDED

The board of assessors has awarded to Sullivan Bros. the contract for printing this year's list of polls and female residents over 20 years of age who are not voters. This concern was the lowest of three bidders, submitting a figure of $135 per page. The other bidders were the Butterfield Printing Co. and the Courier-Citizen Co.

USE BOMBS AND POISON GAS

Armed Civilians Attack British Government Auxiliaries in Dublin Hotel

Bombs, Gas, Petrol, Rifles and Revolvers Used During 20-Minute Battle

DUBLIN, April 11.—A battle raged for 20 minutes today around the North-western hotel in the North-western section of the city. Civilians armed with bombs and firearms attacked the hotel, where government auxiliaries are quartered. One of the assaulting party was killed and several were wounded, two of them seriously.

A number of the auxiliaries are believed to have been wounded.

The attackers began their onslaught as the dockworkers were proceeding to their places of employment. Bombs, poison gas, missiles and bottles of petrol were hurled into the hotel precincts, after which rifles and revolvers were used freely from three sides.

The auxiliaries, taken by surprise, sprang to points of vantage. Some of them in pajamas, and engaged in a brief 20 minute battle, until reinforcements arrived. The attackers then withdrew leaving a quantity of bombs, petrol, gas and revolvers.

FORMER GERMAN EMPRESS DEAD

Augusta Victoria Died This Morning at Doorn, Holland

End Came Just One Year After She Suffered First Serious Heart Attack

DOORN, Holland, April 11.—(By the Associated Press)—Former Empress Augusta Victoria of Germany, died here at 6 o'clock this morning. By a strange coincidence the end came just one year after she suffered her first serious attack of heart disease.

It was while she was preparing to enter the house of Doorn the present home of the former emperor of Germany, after the long residence at Ammerongen, that she was stricken with what at the time was believed to be a fatal attack. That was on April 11, 1920. For a few days there were reports that her death was momentarily expected but she rallied, and accompanied her husband to Doorn on May 15 last.

Attacks of her fatal malady recurred

SPECIAL SESSION OF CONGRESS

Reconstruction Keynote — Measures on Which Early Action is Expected

Session Marks Full Return of G. O. P. Power at Washington

WASHINGTON, April 11.—The 67th congress assembled promptly at noon today at the call of President Harding for its first session expected now to continue probably until fall.

President Harding denied himself to callers and worked on the message he will deliver tomorrow in person to a joint session of the senate and house.

For many years Mr. Harding has prepared his speeches and other documents in long hand and he is following this custom with his message, writing with a lead pencil and turning the finished product over to stenographers to copy after carefully revising it. It was indicated that the message would not be complete until tonight or possibly tomorrow morning.

G. O. P. Again in Control

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Reconstruction of American affairs at home and abroad is the theme of the 67th congress, assembling at noon today in extraordinary session at the call of President Harding. A vast expansion of legislation, promising to prolong the session through the new congress.

Programs of the senate and house for today's opening were confined to organization. The work of the new congress, informally arranged by pre-session conferences of leaders, awaited formal designation, tomorrow or Wednesday, in President Harding's message.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

By Theatres' Own Press Agents

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Elsa Ryan, who has charmed thousands with her portrayal of the title role in "Peg o' My Heart," will hold the first place on this week's bill at the B. F. Keith theatre, appearing in "Peg o' My Heart," a delightful little comedy piece by Dion Tiberius. Elsa Ryan is the possessor of that invaluable buoyancy which is such a Celtic characteristic, and which will so admirably fill the requirement of the part she is to play. Prior to her appearance in comedy she was a delight for a number of years in such sterling musical pieces as "The Belle of Brittany," "Marceline," and "The Kiss Waltz." Her comedy was a member of the company which toured the Pacific coast in "The Blue Mouse."

Vandeville at its speediest, and also melodious as one will well wish will be shown in "Recital Classics," which Burt Gordon and Gene Ford will give during the week, to add to the gaiety of the bill. It is that invaluable combination of music and comedy which Burt Gordon and Gene Ford bring to the stage. Burt Gordon, who is a splendid singer, has that part of the vocal teacher. Gene Ford endeavors to teach Gordon to sing a grand opera aria makes one of the funniest of incidents.

A pair of eccentric dancers, who literally make their toes talk are Joe Rome and Lou Gant. "When Extremes Meet" is what they call their offering, and it is substantiated by reason of the fact that one of the pair is very tall and the other is very short. But both are wizards at dancing.

Novelty is rather a necessity on well organized vaudeville bills, and so William Ebs will contribute this quality to the program. Ebs might be classed in a general way as a ventriloquist, but he has a new medium for the projection of his voice. It is most unusual.

Dainty young women, who are also accomplished singers, are the Thornton sisters. They have sung all over the country, on the concert stage as well as in vaudeville, and they are capable of interesting any audience. The Thornton sisters are wonderful figure roller skaters, and Peak's Educated Blackheads constitute a marionette act that is of the first class. News Kinograms. Topics of the Day and a short comedy will also be shown on the bill.

THE STRAND

"Polly With a Past," with Ina Claire, the Belasco stage star, in the stellar role, will be one of the features on the big picture program at The Strand for the first three days of the week, starting with matinee today. It was this play that brought Miss Claire, for nearly a year now engaged in enacting the principal role in "The Gold Diggers" at the Lyceum theatre, New York city, to stardom. The story has to do with a young girl who comes from the country to study for the dramatic stage, but forced by circumstances finally to be a housemaid. There the friends of Rex Van Zile, in an effort to interest that impressionable young man from another woman they decide to prevail upon Polly Sharon to assume a part of an interestingly brilliant line. And there properly, or perhaps improperly the story really begins. In support of Miss Claire are Ralph Graves, Marie Wainwright, Harry Benham, Clifton Webb and others of screen note, whose combined efforts make for a wonderfully interesting and amusing recital of events that might easily have happened in real life. The picture is indeed fascinating, and the photography and carrying out of the various details of the story unusually well looked after.

"Extravagance" critics agree that May Allison has a vehicle fitting her rare talent. The picture has met with one reception—that of unqualified favor. It is a picture of wild universal interest, sketched by a woman who callously demanded the world's best things, while her husband hastened to even a living. It has a score and a half of far exceeding anything heretofore seen in pictures. Dick Vane, a young lawyer, marries Nancy Brown, a girl burdened with expensive habits and social aspirations and who cannot resist the suggestion of a Mrs. Van Ruyne to help her sail into society. To do this an expensive home and elaborate gown creations must be had. It all ends in the young husband acquiescing, and findings means to meet the demands by forging a check on his father's name. When the misdeed is discovered, the furious father tells his son he must pay the price and go to jail. Nancy is denounced as the cause of his son's ruin, and as an alternative to the jail route, she is asked to show her love by leaving him. The tremendous climax comes with her decision, and the denouement brings a closer understanding of mutual help and a new life. Robert Edeson and others of equal screen ability are in the support of the star.

A comedy and Weekly, as well as musical numbers by Miss Elsie Robbins help round out a bill of exceptional strength.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

"Arrah-Na-Pogue," ("Arrah-of-the-Kiss"), written by Dion Boucicault, the actor author of "The Colleen Maheen," "The Shaughraun," "The Octoroon" and other successes of the stage that have stood the test of time and are still enjoying marked success all over the country, will be the presentation by the Lowell Players at the Opera House this week, and judging from the large advance sale of tickets at this early date, there is every reason to expect a record-breaking attendance. People whose sympathies are with the people of the Emerald Isle in their present crisis.

HOME SERVICE

BOSTON, April 11.—Unanimous endorsement of the Salvation Army's Home Service program has been received from the governors of the six New England states and all consider that the building of advisory boards to assist the Salvation Army in each community is a distinct step forward in solving many social evils that at present remain unchecked.

Considerable progress has already been made in forming these boards, and within a few weeks it is expected that a strong representation will be established in every community in New England.

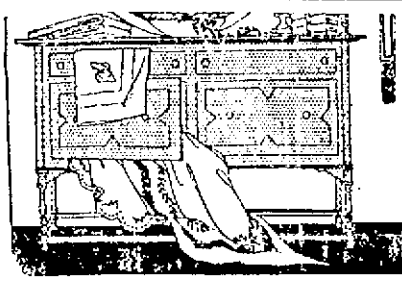

In endorsing the program of the Salvation Army, Governor Channing H. Cox of Massachusetts said, "I am glad to add my commendation to the proposed plan to form advisory boards

GOOD MEN'S MOTIVES MISINTERPRETED

Whenever a good man gives whatever he may have for the public good, there is always someone who misinterprets his motives, attacks his ideas, and down his efforts. This was the declaration of Rev. Norman B. Cawley, of the department of public speaking at Harvard university, who preached at the First Congregational church yesterday. His subject in the evening was "Little Sins, or the Virtue of Mud-Slinging." He reminded his hearers that "We have all heard in large centres throughout New England. It seems to me that boards of this character, composed of business and professional men, would be of great value to an organization such as the Salvation Army."

Governor Everett J. Lake of Connecticut in adding his approval, said: "I certainly approve of the service of the Salvation Army and of the organization set up at this time to assist them. The Salvation Army here in America has always done a fine service."

The work in New Hampshire brought forth the following statement from Governor Alfred Brown, "On behalf of the state of New Hampshire and for these you have aided. I desire to express my gratitude for and appreciation of the valuable services you have rendered."

"Your work through a local board in placing your trained officers and your institutional service at the disposal of every community will receive the co-operation of men and women of local leadership and enjoy the trust and confidence of all the people."

Lowell Greeks Celebrate Centenary Of Their Home Land Independence

SCENES FROM THE GREEK INDEPENDENCE PARADE SHOWING MEMBERS OF THE MESSINIA SOCIETY AND GREEK SCHOOL CHILDREN IN THE LINE OF MARCH

Thousands of flags borne by more than 2000 marchers made a colorful spectacle of the parade which moved through Lowell's principal thoroughfares yesterday afternoon, during the celebration of the centenary of Greek liberation from the Moslem yoke. The red, white and blue of the American flag and the blue and white of the Greek national colors were in the hands of nearly every participant in the procession, which followed a thanksgiving service at Holy Trinity church, in Lewis street. Military and naval veterans of the world war headed the column, uniformed and acting as a color guard for the flags of America and Greece, which were borne side by side. Local Hellenic societies followed in a body, together with other men, women and children of Greek birth or extraction. Crowds lined the route of the procession, which passed through Middlesex, Central and Merrimack streets.

The day's celebration started in the forenoon with a special service at the Orthodox church in Jefferson street, and was followed by a street parade in the afternoon, in which at least 2000 men and women participated and the climax was reached at the mass meeting in Associate hall, where a religious service and patriotic exercises were conducted.

At the morning church service which was held at 11 o'clock the officiating clergymen were Rev. Nestor Soultides and Rev. Nicholas Menides. The service was in the form of a mass of thanksgiving and was brought to a close with prayers for the success of the Greek army, which is now struggling with the Turks. A special musical program under the direction of George Gatzoulis was given during the service.

At the close of the church service the two brass bands which had been engaged for the parade made their appearance and considered concerts in various parts of the district up to the time of the formation of the parade.

At 1 o'clock the various societies of the community, the school children and the men, who are not connected with any organization, assembled at the church and shortly after 1:30 o'clock the "forward march" command was given.

Major Sampson, who received a cordial greeting, said that at the invitation of Senator David L. Vane, several business men of New York decided to look into the question of distress in Ireland and organized a committee of seven Quakers to look into conditions in that country. They chose men of this belief because they are not allowed to engage in war and thought that they could not be opposed by England or any other country.

The committee went all through Ireland, he said, from north to south, and in both Catholic and Protestant territory they found that great damage had been done by the destruction of factories and premises and that when military forces destroyed property, no insurance is paid. The loss at the end of 1920 amounted to $200,000,000 worth of property, he said. He told of 30,000 houses in Belfast, of one house in every three houses having been burned in Dublin, the destruction of the city of Cork, the hostilities at Rathfriland and the destruction of the people on which the people depended in a large measure for support. That the unemployment and resulting distress is widespread in Ireland is attested by the highest authorities.

The speaker then told in detail of the way in which the organization is functioning in Ireland through the White Cross, a wholly non-partisan, non-political organization. He read a letter from the head of the society showing what is now being accomplished and what is needed to further the work. In conclusion, he asked those in the audience to put their shoulders to the wheel so that the

this country and then went into the details of the operation of the White Cross there and the program of the relief campaign in this country.

The speakers were heard by an audience which completely filled every seat in the large auditorium and both balconies, while many stood throughout the meeting. The theatre had been given up for the meeting through the kindness of the Y.M.C.A. and the Musicians' union. These organizations had planned to hold a concert at the Opera House yesterday but when it became known that the theatre was wanted for the relief meeting they immediately consented to postpone their program until next Sunday.

The speechmaking was preceded by an excellent musical program given under the direction of Mrs. John T. Donehue and Mrs. Joseph W. Green. The choral society of the League of Catholic Women gave a number of selections from the oratorio, "The Holy City," which it is soon to present, with Mrs. Donehue directing. And Mrs. McCarthy was greatly applauded for his singing of "Mother Machree," with harp accompaniment by Miss Grace Donehue. Mr. McCarthy with Mr. and Mrs. James A. Murphy of St. Michael's choir, sang several Irish numbers with fine musical effect and won liberal applause. The Opera House orchestra opened the program with an overture.

Fred H. Bourke, supervisor of the relief drive in northern Middlesex county, opened the meeting by introducing Capt. W. C. MacBrayne, who presided. The chairman made an introductory speech urging the claims of Ireland upon the humane and charitable instincts of the American people. The existing distress, he said, should be considered apart from any sentiment of prejudice because of race or creed. That actual distress exists in Ireland and that the funds would be honestly applied where most needed, he said, would be shown by the speakers who were to be presented.

AFTER delighted comment on the beautiful lines it gave her figure, she added: "It feels so good, too!"—a compliment indeed with the accurate shaping of this season must accomplish.

The secret of Redfern's shaping lies in the designing. So carefully has this been done that they will mould even a shapeless figure into its beautiful contour with absolute comfort to the wearer. In fact the wearer and her Redfern are one.

For the Spring and Summer frocks, what so fitting as a light-weight, exquisitely fashioned Redfern corset—soft to the touch and made with as little weight as possible to accomplish its purpose—a Redfern is delightful, flexible, cool and comfortable—a corset in which to enjoy the summer days.

GOOD FISHING

George R. Dearborn, agent of the Bay State Cotton Corp., returned last evening from Lake Winnepesaukee, N.H., where he spent the week fishing for lake trout. Mr. Dearborn reports that fishing in the New Hampshire lake is excellent and that good catches are being made by sports from various parts of New England. The limit for one fisherman in one day is six trout. Mr. Dearborn went the limit, and he says there were many others as fortunate as he. The season for lake trout opened April 1, but the lid is still on brook trout and anglers will not be able to try their luck until April 15.

NO-HIT, NO-RUN GAME

CORLIENZ, April 10.—The honor of developing the first no-hit, no-run game of the 1921 baseball season, so far as appears, fell to Corlienz today at the opening of the season of the American forces of occupation. At the Texas, pitching for the quartermasters' team, blanked the Eighth Infantry, last year's champions. Only one eighth Infantry batter got on, reaching first on a pass.

"grand old commonwealth will go over the top."

Thomas J. Gore

Former Senator Gore was introduced in complimentary terms and received a great ovation. He said that starvation and pestilence were rampant in Ireland at the present time and that his purpose was not only to excite sympathy but also to stimulate generosity.

He said that Ireland was the one nation which has never had any so-called "dark ages." It embraced Christianity without the use of fire or sword and has kept the flame of Christianity burning. Ireland has done more for the world than the world can ever do for Ireland. He hoped America would endeavor at least to pay the interest on the debt she owes to Ireland. It is not as a figure of speech that Ireland was named "The island of saints and scholars."

To her monasteries and universities came many students from what was then pagan England, and from all over Europe. From Ireland went forth scholars and missionaries to the heathen tribes of the then known world. Ireland stands forth like a morning star giving promise of a brighter and happier day.

"It is not only a duty—it should be a privilege for us to take advantage of this opportunity to pay back some of this debt of to world to Ireland. America's heart has beat with sympathy for the distressed of every land, one hundred years ago when the Greek sought to cast off the yoke of Turkish domination, the sympathy of America was extended by congress. When South America sought to break the chains which bound them, the United States sympathized and assisted in the work. We have always sympathized with those who are wrestling with material want because of famine, pestilence and other troubles. The distress have received our help recently. When the great earthquake occurred in Italy and Vesuvius overflowed, burying several towns with lava, our people not only contributed individually, but the treasury of the nation was opened for the sufferers.

these strangers to us in race and religion, but if we sympathize with these, how much more should we sympathize with those of Ireland who are flesh of our flesh and blood of our blood. We owe a special debt to Ireland and her people. It is doubtful if we could have won the war of independence without the help and sacrifice of many sons of Ireland. The sons of Ireland fell side by side with Warren at Bunker Hill. They suffered side by side with Washington at Valley Forge. And they stood side by side with Washington when the English flag came down forever from the battlements of Yorktown, and the Stars and Stripes went up never to come down." (Great applause.)

"America shares with the world a common obligation to Ireland, but America is also under a special obligation to Ireland. Ireland has asked to be allowed to live her own life in her own way, and she feels she has been denied her place in the sun. She has not been allowed to make her best contribution to the progress of mankind."

"I do not mean to inquire into the justice of her cause. There are those here, no doubt, who are the champions of an Irish republic. There are those here who are champions of home rule, and government under a dominion plan. There are still others who may be indifferent—and possibly some who think that Ireland be ruled as at present. However much you may differ, you will not differ as to the duty of ministering unto the wants and needs of a suffering people. I do not believe there is anyone here who will refuse to contribute aid to hungry women on account of the religion, or to starving children because of the politics of their fathers. Did Christ say, 'Suffer the little children to come unto me, providing they are Baptized' or providing their mothers believe in predestination? Will anyone refuse to give on account of the religion or politics of the needy? It is not so in Lowell."

Rev. Daniel J. Keilcher, Ph. D.
The final speaker was Rev. Daniel J.

Keilcher, Ph. D., pastor of St. Peter's church, who spoke briefly on the need of relief in Ireland and congratulated the audience on its size and evident interest in the relief campaign.

The meeting was in charge of a committee headed by Chairman James O'Sullivan and included Fred H. Bourke, Frank P. McGilly, Francis A. Warnock, Miss Alice T. Lee, Mrs. John T. Donehue, Miss Gaffney and Thomas E. Clark, secretary. A detail of soldiers from Battery B served as ushers. Mr. Charles O'Malley of the O'Malley Advertising Agency of Boston, who has charge of the publicity work for the Irish relief fund, accompanied Senator Gore and Major Sampson from Boston.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS
by Olive Roberts Barton

"OFF TO SEE THE WORLD"

"I'LL GO LONG," SAID MR. SEAL.

"What's the matter?" asked Flippety-Flap, when Mrs. Seal looked with a frightened air as though hunting a good place to hide.

"I don't want to see any pictures of the circus," she said fearfully. "My husband has been telling me what a dreadful place it is. They make you drink fire and the Billy goats have stone heads to hit you with—and—You tell him, Silky, what an awful thing you had."

Mr. Seal cleared his throat and looked uneasily toward the twins who were huddled together in the corner of the room. "Auntie," he said, "I was just telling my wife about it," he said.

Flippety-Flap winked. "Did you tell her all about the grand things you had to do, and how kind the people were to you, and when you went by in your great red-and-gold wagon, with a nice tank to make you comfortable, how the children clapped their hands and cheered you? And did you tell her what fun it was to watch the crowds and how proud you felt when you played in the band and made such pretty music, and people waved their hats and handkerchiefs? And every time you did a clever trick you got a reward. Did you tell her all that?"

Mr. Seal had nothing to say. Mrs. Seal looked reproachful but she didn't say a word either. Instead she wobbled over and looked at the wonderful posters with their gorgeous breathing pictures, that the twins were pasting.

She came back and quietly tied on her bonnet. "Silky," said she, "you may stay if you wish, but I'm going to see the world."

Mr. Seal saw that the game was up and hunted up his hat, too. "I'll go long," said he. "I s'pose I can put off my home-making till some other time."

And he did. (To Be Continued.)

message. This was expected to deal principally with domestic affairs, tariff, internal revenue and other home legislation. Peace and other international problems were scheduled for attention later in the session.

G.O.P. Again in Saddle

The special session beginning today—which will be the first of three—marks the return of the republican party to complete national control. Not since President Taft's time have the White House, the senate and house and the government departments all been under republican rule. The senate convenes with 55 republicans and 31 democrats and the house with 167 republicans and 132 democrats and one socialist.

Pre-eminent in the extra session program is fiscal legislation. This includes the Fordney emergency tariff bill, in line for immediate action, anti-dumping legislation, substitution of American for foreign valuations of imports, permanent tariff revision, a new internal revenue tax law, the budget system bill, and the soldiers' bonus bill. Other measures are those for reorganization of government departments and for re-classification of federal salary and wage scales.

The opening flood of bills and resolutions which failed during the last congress which adjourned March 4 last, always begins in the house. Introduction of senate bills and resolutions comes tomorrow.

Most of the senate and house members, new and old, were present for today's opening. Although perfunctory, the opening session always is the magnet for spectators. The senate having organized during its special session after March 4, interest today centered in the house proceedings.

Program in House

The house program today follows: 12 m.—William Tyler Page, clerk, calls house to order.

Prayer by the chaplain and reading by the clerk of President Harding's proclamation calling congress into extraordinary session.

Clerk Page calls the roll of the house, by states instead of alphabetical membership.

Election of speaker. Representative Gillett of Massachusetts, former speaker, being nominated from the republican side, and Representative Kitchin of North Carolina from the democratic side.

Speaker Gillett escorted to chair by a committee and after being sworn in delivers a brief address.

House officers re-elected and sworn in as follows: Clerk, William Tyler Page; sergeant-at-arms, Joseph O. Rogers; doorkeeper, Bert Kennedy and postmaster, Frank W. Collier—all republican holdovers.

State delegations sworn in by Speaker Gillett.

Resolutions adopted appointing committees to notify the president and the senate of the assembling of the house.

Election of republicans and democrats to committees.

Adoption of rules and adjournment until tomorrow.

The senate program was similar but more brief because of previous organization. It provided:

Call to order by Vice President Coolidge and opening prayer by chaplain.

Clerk George Sanderson reads President's proclamation calling the extra session.

Wearing in of two new senators, Norbeck of South Dakota and Bursum of New Mexico, republicans, who were not present during the extra session of the senate after March 4.

Roll call and declaration of a constitutional quorum.

Resolutions appointing a committee—Senate Lodge of Massachusetts and Underwood of Alabama, republican and democratic floor leaders, respectively, to notify President Harding of the senate's presence, and of committee for similar notification of the house.

Adjournment until tomorrow.

Modest Floor Leader

Few important changes in republican organizations in either senate or house were in prospect. Representative Mondell of Wyoming, continued as republican floor leader in the house and Representative Kitchin of North Carolina returned to that position for the democratic republican committee.

Appointments were increased and democratic reduced on all senate and house committees because of the republican gains in congress. Chairmanships mostly remained unchanged. Under new senate rules, many senate committee were abolished and senators' committee assignments reduced.

The first legislation planned during the extra session is the Fordney emergency tariff bill. Leaders hope to get it into President Harding's hands this week, virtually in the form in which it was vetoed by former President Wilson last March.

Permanent tariff revision is expected to follow the emergency bill in the house.

The senate calendar is headed by the $25,000,000 Colombian treaty, with an agreement to vote in eight days. Ratification is being predicted although there is vigorous opposition from a large fraction of republicans, who plan after tomorrow to open the doors for debate. It is expected that President Harding's special message to the senate in extra session last month will then be made public.

Action on Nominations

Immediate action is also planned by the senate on many nominations. A long list, including recess appointments, is expected tomorrow from the White House.

Two of the annual appropriation bills needed July 1—the army and navy budgets—also to be pressed through early in the session. The army measure, carrying $345,000,000, suffered a "pocket veto" by former President Wilson last March, while the navy bill, in which the house appropriated

Healthy Young Womanhood

THE tendency to constipation begins with girls as they approach maturity, and that is the very time the mother should watch that the important function of daily elimination is regular and normal.

Many thousands of mothers who have daughters will tell you they give only Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. A teaspoonful is sufficient to relieve constipation and its common symptoms such as headache, bad breath, biliousness, loss of appetite and restless sleep.

Syrup Pepsin is a compound of Egyptian Senna and other simple laxative herbs with pepsin and pleasant-tasting aromatics, and a sixty-cent bottle is enough for many months. Eight million bottles were bought at drug stores last year, the largest sale of the kind in the world.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has been on the market thirty years and there must be genuine merit behind it to develop so large and steady a sale. Buy a bottle today and you will quickly see why it is so popular.

Send me your name and address and I will send you a free trial bottle of my Syrup Pepsin. Address me Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 533 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Everybody now and then needs a laxative, and it is well to know the best. Write me today.

$295,000,000 and the senate naval committee $496,000,000, failed in the senate fight over disarmament. New recommendations as to a military program are expected from the administration. Prompt action on the two bills by the house is being predicted, but with further delay in prospect in the senate by further disarmament agitation. In that connection, Senator Borah promises to renew his effort for action requesting the president to have the United States, Great Britain and Japan brought into a naval reduction conference.

International relations promise to play a large but probably delayed part in the new congress. Of first consideration is termination of the war status with Germany and Austria. Restoration of trade with Russia, Japanese questions and possibly Panamanian tolls were other big subjects in the offing.

In addition to the program of tariff and tax revision, the republican leadership promised hasty action to curtail immigration. The measure vetoed by former President Wilson was scheduled for early passage, possibly first in the senate while the house is engaged with fiscal reform.

Other important measures for which pressure is in prospect:

A new congressional reapportionment bill, in place of the measure which failed recently in the senate.

The Calder coal bill for publication of coal information.

The packer control bill.

Cold storage regulation.

Patent office reorganization.

The Tower maternity aid bill.

The Watson bill liberalizing the war risk insurance act.

Philippine and Porto Rican independence.

Amnesty for persons convicted under the espionage act.

Restriction of allied loans.

Railroad reform also is to be prominent. A resolution authorizing an exhaustive investigation of railroad finances and other affairs by the senate interstate commerce committee is to be introduced at once by Chairman Cummins.

Other inquiries which will be continued will be the senate judiciary committee's investigation of allied loans and the house judiciary committee examination of eligibility of Federal Judge Landis to continue as arbiter of organized baseball.

The tide of general investigations into departmental affairs is expected to fall.

JAPANESE SAILORS HELD

Five Arrested for Attempt
to Smuggle Liquor Into
United States—One Shot

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 11.—Five Japanese sailors, one suffering from a bullet wound in the hip, were under arrest by federal prohibition officers here today as the result of an attempt by members of the crew of the Japanese steamer Eris Maru to smuggle ashore 14 cases of liquor. In addition to the liquor seized after being brought ashore by members of the crew, officials also were guarding 12 cases taken when they later boarded and searched the vessel.

A lively exchange of shots took place when a group of sailors resisted arrest after they conveyed the 14 cases of liquor ashore at the direction of two prohibition officers who had visited the ship to arrange for its "purchase." Surprised by officers hidden at the prearranged place of delivery, the sailors were said to have opened fire when an attempt was made to arrest them, one being wounded in the hip in the ensuing exchange of shots. After the arrests a search was made of the ship.

Officers who took part in the raid said their plans were laid after receiving information that members of the crew of the Eris Maru, which arrived here April 7, intended to smuggle in liquor. The vessel came here from Barry, England, to load phosphate.

The federal officers declined to state today whether they would take any action to seize the vessel, indicating that they would await the result of their investigation of the men held.

For the way that brings prettier teeth

Do as millions have done—make this ten-day test. See how film removal beautifies the teeth. Learn how it makes safer teeth. Brush your teeth in the modern way and watch all the good effects.

Film makes teeth dingy

That viscous film you feel is the teeth's chief enemy. Most tooth troubles are now traced to it. It clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays. Old brushing methods did not effectively combat it. So very few people have escaped discoloration and decay.

Film absorbs stains, making the teeth look dingy. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Two ways to fight it

Dental science has now found two effective ways to fight film. They are combined in a new-day tooth paste—Pepsodent—made to meet modern requirements.

Pepsodent
REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.
The New-Day Dentifrice

The scientific film combatant, approved by modern authorities and now advised by leading dentists everywhere—to bring five desired effects. All druggists supply the large tubes.

Each use of Pepsodent brings five effects which dentists now desire. It attacks the film. It keeps the teeth so highly polished that film cannot easily adhere.

It increases the salivary flow, which is Nature's great tooth-protecting agent. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That to digest the starch deposits which otherwise may form acid. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, to neutralize the acids which cause tooth decay.

Thus Pepsodent is bringing to millions whiter, cleaner, safer teeth. Leading dentists everywhere are now urging its adoption.

Results are delightful

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

FISH AND GAME LICENSE

Lowell Men Will Oppose
Proposed Increase in Combination License

A delegation from the Lowell Fish and Game association will go to Boston tomorrow to attend a hearing on the proposed $2 hunting and fishing license. Heretofore the combination license cost $1 and now it is proposed to increase the price to $2. A great many members of the Fish and Game association do not believe that a license to fish should be made necessary, but that at any rate it should not be necessary to pay $2 for a combination license if one intended only to fish and, vice versa, if one intended only to hunt. There is no opposition to a hunting license. Because of the danger attached thereto should be some provision for safety and responsibility. No danger, however, attaches to fishing and only a nominal cost, if any, should be charged for a license to fish. It is argued. The Lowell delegation at the hearing to be held in room 243, state house, at 10 A. M., tomorrow will be led by President Simon B. Harris of the local fish and game association, and Mr. Harris says he will pay his respects to the sponsors for the new bill.

THE BRITISH LABOR CRISIS

We are not prepared to believe that England is to be smothered by any coal strike. Following his usual tactics Premier Lloyd George will let the movement reach a dangerous climax by stern resistance to the demands of the men and then when everybody thinks disaster is inevitable, he will turn some kind of a back-handed compromise that will catch the strikers and bring about a settlement. The premier will emerge stronger politically, than ever and then he will challenge his enemies to seek a verdict of the people.

This may seem rather silly talk in view of a situation so menacing; but that is just what the wily prime minister wants—to scare the nation and make the people believe that he will save them from industrial anarchy and Bolshevism, as he claims to have saved the empire during the war.

The miners and their allies in other unions may be charged with dangerous radical tendencies; but all such charges are unjust. They want fair wages and light working conditions although it is charged that they want nationalization of the mines. They want government control continued, but as this was meeting a financial loss of five million dollars a week, its continuance would be regarded in the same light as a government subsidy.

On the other hand, the miners foresee a movement to cut their wages to the pre-war level and they fight against this; but there is every reason to believe that the government will see that no such cut shall be attempted—this as a condition of restoring peace and calling off the strike.

It will be recalled that the premier broke off negotiations very abruptly when he first went into conference with the miners. He demanded that the miners should relinquish control of the pumps and on refusal of this point, he dropped negotiations, saying that any further discussion would be useless.

There would have been but little glory in settling the strike at that juncture. He wanted a crisis that would make every man, woman and child in England quake at contemplation of the consequences; and then, after some political maneuvering, he will grant concessions that will satisfy the miners and that would have been readily accepted in the first place. Then he will pose as the savior of the nation, the only man in England who can rescue the empire from every impending danger, and the people whom he has fooled will believe him and with loud acclaim shout "down with the enemies of Lloyd George!"

The British people have not yet fathomed the cunning and the duplicity of the man who holds the helm of the ship of state. Sometimes he has steered the vessel deliberately toward the rocks and then when everybody thought ruin was unavoidable, he would shift his sails and on a new tack bring the vessel into calm and placid waters; after which, he walked the quarter-deck to receive the plaudits alike of king and people. Thus realizing the trickery and resourcefulness of the Machiavellian Lloyd George, we do not share the views of those who believe that England is to be swept by industrial anarchy and general internal disorder.

RAILWAY HOME RULE

It is to be regretted that Secretary Manager George F. Wells of the chamber of commerce has felt impelled to resign as a member of the street railway home rule committee. Mr. Wells has put much time and energy into an attempt to serve the interests of the community and his loss will be severely felt.

Mr. Wells doubtless describes conditions as they have been in the past when he says that the efforts of the committee to improve local transportation conditions have received "little or no consideration," and that such recommendations as "have been made have been generally ignored or denied," and that those in power have made their decisions "in advance of hearing any recommendations or arguments" from the committee.

The committee has made little headway in getting a hearing for its propositions for the improvement of the service does not by any means prove that there is no longer a need of usefulness for the body.

The committee has served a useful purpose in that it has helped to focus public attention upon the problem of local street railway transportation. It has at least been instrumental in forcing the well known universal demand for a five-cent fare in this city. It has also, in some measure, served to keep the street railway management alive to the needs of our city and the defects of the service. If the committee has not succeeded in its efforts in improving conditions, it is not probable that its existence has been fully justified by preventing the coming of greater evil than we now have.

The campaign for a five-cent fare may well be looked upon as only in its infancy stage. The sentiment in favor of a lower fare, such as undoubtedly exists in this city, is quite certain to make itself fully heard in the near future, and the home rule committee is needed to help keep the agitation alive and speed the coming of the desired change.

It may be suggested that the home rule committee might find itself in a position to be of greater usefulness to the community if it could not only definitely set its duties and spheres of activity, but also the conditions of the committee to the board of trustees are so vague and uncertain as to make it impossible to know exactly what part it is expected to play in the conduct of the transportation system.

THE CASE OF GREECE

Greece is up against a serious undertaking in trying to defeat Kemal, the leader of the Turkish nationalists. This Kemal has been threatening terrible things to the allies for over a year. He has promised to whip the Greeks, then to drive the British out of Palestine, the French out of Syria and the Italians out of Adalia in Asia Minor. It was the treaty of Sevres that stripped Turkey of her possessions. It annulled her claims to Egypt and part of Morocco and reduced her holdings in Asia to a relatively small tract between Constantinople in the west and the Armenia-Arabi line in the east.

The sultan was about to sign the treaty when Kemal raised the standard of rebellion, gathered an army and located at Angora in Anatolia. Kemal is now the real ruler of Turkey and with an army of 200,000 he is beyond easy reach of the allies. Kemal spurns the provisions of the Sevres treaty and wants the sultan deposed from the leadership of the Mohammedan church.

When the Greeks were led by Venizelos, the allied premiers, Lloyd George and Millerand, urged them to go and defeat Kemal. In all probability the favors lavished on Greece were given with the understanding that she was to wage war against Kemal. Marshal Foch said the Greeks couldn't defeat Kemal with less than half a million men. That indicates that this military proposition is more serious than most people imagined. The Greeks met Kemal in June of last year and were defeated. In a second attempt the Greeks have suffered another defeat, more serious than the first. In her present campaign, Greece hoped to defeat the Turks and assert her sway over the territory ceded in the treaty of Sevres, but the best military experts in Europe expressed the opinion that she could not defeat the Turks in their present entrenched position. It appears that in the recent battle, the Kemal forces were aided by the Bolsheviks. We are confident, however, that when Greece gets her forces together she will be able to vanquish the Turks; but it will be a very difficult undertaking, and as this is a cause in which the allies are interested, they should aid Greece in forcing this dictator to surrender.

BE KIND TO ANIMALS

We are coming to have an almost ceaseless procession of "days" and "weeks" devoted to promoting one worthy cause or another. In this way it has been sought to impress upon the public mind some lesson it should learn, or to gather funds to finance some movement for making the world better or happier.

Beginning today comes "Be Kind to Animals" week. It does not come to us as a novelty. It has been annually observed for a number of years. It deserves to have wide recognition.

It was in Massachusetts, in 1888, that the second society for the prevention of cruelty to animals in this country was organized. Since its formation the people of the state have been foremost in every movement that had for its object the promotion of greater regard for the feelings and comfort of our four-footed friends.

There is yet much that needs to be accomplished, however, in teaching people that they have a duty to perform to their faithful friends of the animal world. Soon the annual exodus from the cities to the country and the seashore for the vacation period will begin. As usual, many families will thoughtlessly leave their pets behind them to starve or depend upon the kindness of neighbors for the food to keep them alive. A general observance of "Be Kind to Animals Week" ought to serve to make thoughtless or heartless people who desert their pets, more regardless of the possible suffering to which they may thus subject the creatures.

It would seem that the statement of Mayor Harry D. Thompson that the city paid out as much for charity relief in the last three months as it did in all of 1920, might cause the municipal council to consider the wisdom of inducing work for some of those whom it is feeding.

Judge Enright shows a commendable desire to have the police furnished with information regarding the sale of liquor in this city, but whether he is adding anything to what they already know may be questioned.

Misses has passed a law forbidding street railway companies from charging more than half fare for passengers coming to school. Now we know where the streetcar's paradise is located.

The continued footing of appropriations by the city to the Lowell Public Health department has been a source of complaint to the city fathers.

The sweetest sympathy of all the thoughtful of the city and the pouring of the spindles of the Lowell mills as they start toward normalcy again.

It is not difficult to foresee what will happen to poor old Lowell's spring box if she has to pay for all of the auto springs broken on First street.

Starting tomorrow the employees of the Lowell Public Health department will be paid $1.00 a week.

This is "Be Kind to Animals Week" and its lessons need to be learned by grown-ups as well as the children in the schools.

Drinking Mistakes

To railroad officials, engineering experts and directors of great enterprises, Henry Herberman is known as the man who achieved the impossible. To the general public he is not known at all. Yet he is ten times a millionaire and owns great manufacturing plants. "I never lose a man," he says, "I make mistakes. I am always conscious of a man who doesn't make mistakes, because it shows me he is afraid of taking chances, that he is playing safe instead of using his brain."

To Barbara

This is written in honor of the barber of Milfordville, Va., who, as is widely reported, is helping to restore normalcy by reducing the prices of haircuts and shaves. It is well that normally should start thus at the seat of authority—the barber chair. There all issues agitating the nation are settled by the barber himself whose opinion the citizen, lying helpless in the chair, smothered in suds and fascinated by the overhanging razor, is bound to accept. As Shurabral sang in "Arabian Nights": "The trades altogether are like a necktie, and the barber is the chief pearl of the strings." He exchequer all that are endowed with skill, and under his hands are the heads of kings.

And how full of wisdom is the barber's own head. He knoweth everything—Babe Ruth's batting average; and the time Man of War made in his last race; and what is good for lumber; and the best way to make home-brew. Also, what will redecorate any bald spot except his own. Nor is he a mere encyclopedia. He is a man of opinion, an opinion which he is prepared to give on a matter and on all occasions, unlike those spineless creatures whose opinions blow hot or cold for the pleasure of their respective customers. In paying tribute thus to barbers in general, we have ventured far afield from the original proposition namely: The barber of Milfordville, who is blazing the trail to normalcy. May his tribe increase!

Recollections

Ever go a-fishing. After wishing. A week or two for spring. When an April morning. Without warning. Brought warmth and everything? When you got the spade out. And just in time. To dig ten worms from that hole. Then spent an hour in hunting. Grumbling, grunting. To find your fishing pole? Then hot, and full of fury. Grabbed in a hurry. A snail and some pie. And buried it to the river. All a-giver. Three-pounders in each eye? Then sat, and sat, and waited. Meditated. And used up all your hair. And caught three little catfish. And one fatfish. And went home tired, quite late?

Remember? Birds were singing. Maples flinging. The blossoms down on you? And you sat fishing, dozing. And supping? Recall it? Sure you do!

—ALFRED ARNOLD.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

The statement of a defendant in the police court that he could "get liquor in lots of places in Lowell," was called to the attention of a member of the liquor squad. "Sure he knows where he can get it," was the reply, "and we know where he can get it, too. But we can't let a people seem to imagine that it is a simple matter to nail these illicit distributors of booze. But we don't stop to realize that we aren't working under the federal law, with all its ways for obtaining evidence and convictions. We're working under the state law, which is quite a different thing." It was explained that the law in Massachusetts, which is all the authorization the local officers have on which to act, provides that a man can manufacture and have in his possession, booze which is for his own use. The burden of proof, to the effect that he intends a sale, is on the arresting officer. Either the man has to be captured red-handed in a sale, or traffic to and from his establishment has to be shown clearly enough to convince the court that sales are being made. The men who are caught and go to jail, unless a warrant has been secured, remain in jail until a warrant is secured. They may not be searched without a search warrant. Business in bar-rooms is largely done through "hippers" who carry the booze in their pocket and pour out a drink when a customer comes in. If an officer enters the place, armed with a search warrant, he finds nothing. If he is to search the "hipper" has to be searched. In fact for him. And even if he does find liquor on him, there is no way to prove that the owner of the establishment is responsible. When liquor is actually kept behind the bar, it is usually in a dispenser or in glasses. If officers enter the place, whatever hard stuff is on hand is instantly swept into the sink, leaving over the bar, while a search is made and sometimes done by the police, a man power quick enough to prevent this disposal of the evidence. In the absence of the fact that liquor found on "hippers" cannot constitute a violation, a case usually in the police court is added. A man who was in a bar-room was induced to give up to members of the raiding squad a bottle containing booze which he had in his pocket. When the case came before the court the man declared that he was doing painting for the proprietor, and that he had the liquor for his personal use. He was discharged by the court, while the proprietor of the establishment also came out unscathed, although the police said that the "hipper" was a really a "hipper." Hipsters are the ways of moonshiners, and there are loopholes in the state law which render the task of the liquor officer working for the city a difficult one. The federal officer, on the other hand, has a far more radical law behind him, and can convict his man whether the latter is a moonshiner or a hipster. The federal officer is not a federal sin if you have a drink for yourself; but it is a state sin only if you deal with others in the hard stuff.

CONFIRMS LARGE CLASS

Bishop Lawrence Admits 67 New Communicants in St. Anne's Church

Speaking to a confirmation class of 67 members in St. Anne's church yesterday morning, Bishop William Lawrence, bishop of the diocese of Eastern Massachusetts, compared the newly admitted communicants of the church to soldiers in the front line trenches in time of war. A congregation that completely filled the church listened to the bishop's address.

Continuing his address to the confirmation class, he said: "When we entered the world war, the young men went to the front while others remained at home in reserve. You young people today stand for those who were in the front line. Remember that those who went, thought in the first place, that the cause for which they enlisted and were ready to give their lives, was a right cause. In the next place, they were prepared to be loyal under any conditions, whether they were held in reserve or were sent to the front. And third, they realized that they were one with the great army and with the nation behind them."

Later in the service the bishop addressed the congregation. He spoke in part as follows: "Why is it that there are so many people who say it does not make much difference whether people go to church or not? It is because they often do not see any difference. If the people who go out of this church today were sent to be much finer than those outside, then these outside would want to come in also. A great way of the inward, most chivalrous characters of this city and any city have no interest in the church and are outside of the church, although they are interested in Christ and follow Him as some of us fail to follow Him. Why? Is it not partly that we do not give to them that fine type of Christian character, that spirit of sacrifice which leads them to say that these things come only through the church?"

"I have known St. Anne's parish longer than most of you. A generation has come and gone. It is a noble work the parish has done. I appeal to you, not only of the confirmation class, but the men and the women, who are 20 and 30 years of age, to take hold of St. Anne's and by your character and devotion make it finer and stronger than it ever has been. The parish church is the power house of the city. As the congregation goes out, each one carrying the light from off the altar, they carry with them the power of Christian devotion and the warmth and enthusiasm of Christ Himself."

"The future of St. Anne's is in the hands of you who are from 16 to 30. See to it that you are soldiers of Christ and faithful servants."

GARDEN PLANNING

Garden News Story From the Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture and Home Economics

Gardeners who have not worked out a definite plan will do well to have one in mind before starting to plant. All vegetables should be planted in long rows 7.20 each evening. This saves both labor and space and prevents the escape of moisture. Tall growing vegetables should be placed on the north side of the plot as they will not shade the smaller plants. In well cultivated plots root crops can be grown in rows 14 inches apart. Peas, beans and plants of that size can be sown in rows 14 inches apart. This saves both labor and space and prevents the escape of moisture. Tall growing vegetables should be placed on the north side of the plot as they will not shade the smaller plants. presented "Liberty," one boy being attired in the Greek national costume, while the girls were dressed in costumes representing Columbia, Uncle Sam and a Red Cross nurse.

The parade started in Lewis street and went over the following route: Broadway to Adams, to Market, to Dutton, to Thorndike, to Middlesex, to Central, to Merrimack as far as Associate hall, where it was dismissed by the chief marshal.

Associate hall was elaborately decorated, white and blue predominating in the color scheme. Large streamers of white and blue extended from the four corners of the ceiling to the center chandelier, from which hung numerous American and Greek flags. The balcony was draped with white bunting and blue streamers, while the windows were hung with white lace curtains, surmounted with American flag rosettes. The stage background consisted of two large American flags with a large Greek flag in the center, while over the Greek colors hung a large portrait of Constantine Rhigas, poet and martyr.

The hall was crowded to the doors and it was figured that at least 1000 people were present to get in. The exercises opened with a special prayer, conducted by Rev. Nicholas Menides, and during which the hymn to the Madonna, sung by the Greek children in the 8th century, was rendered by the school children. American and Greek patriotic hymns were sung by the children and then there was an opening address by Peter Sautis, principal of the Greek parochial school, who briefly explained the nature of the celebration and introduced as the first speaker Dr. John H. Gatsopoulos, who represented the Greeks of Lowell at the Greek conference at Paris.

Dr. Gatsopoulos' Address
Dr. Gatsopoulos first addressed the gathering in their own language and then spoke in English, his address being in part as follows:

"Greece, who greeted with unbounded joy the proclamation of independence of 1830, then sighing under the yoke of the Turk, felt a great hope and saw a ray of light dawn upon her long night of servitude following the war of the revolution in 1821.

"There are many things which naturally tend to make an international sympathy between Americans and Greeks. In the first place the ties of a common civilization, which bind the educated minds of all countries to the mighty memories of ancient Greece. Again, the principles of civil liberty, constitutional government and popular legislation were first brought forth and developed by the genius, as remarkable for political wisdom for adoption of the fine arts—of the Greek people.

"Again, the American republic borrowed from ancient Greece the principle of local self government, though the glory of perfecting it belongs to the founders of the American democracy. And it affords me, as it does thousands of other Greeks, great pleasure to emphasize that Greece during the revolutionary war and after never forgot the noble sympathy manifested towards her by the American nation.

"Full of gratitude and friendship, Greece has always watched with the deepest interest the wonderful progress achieved by a people to which she feels attached by ties that are indissoluble.

"When Greece was fighting for her independence against odds that were tremendous, heart by heart and sword by sword, abandoned by the power of the earth, at the moment when she was rising from the night of the Moslem servitude, Henry Clay, that splendid Virginian patriot and orator, arose in the house of representatives and spoke words which fill to this day the heart of every man of Hellenic blood with everlasting gratitude.

"Said Henry Clay, on that memorable occasion: 'And hast come to this? Are we too humbled, so low, so debased, that we dare not express our sympathy for suffering Greece, that we dare not articulate our detestation of the brutal excesses of which she has been the bleeding victim, lest we might offend some one or more of their Imperial and royal majesties? If, gentlemen, we are afraid to act on such a subject, suppose, Mister Chairman, that we unite in a humble petition addressed to their majesties beseeching them that of their gracious condescension they would allow us to express our feelings and our sympathies. How shall it run? We, the representatives of the free people of the United States of America, humble ourselves before the thrones of your Imperial and royal majesties and supplicate that if your Imperial and royal clemency—I cannot go through the disgusting recital. My lips have not yet learned to pronounce the sybaritic language of a degraded slave—America's Sympathy.

"The indignation of the famous American congressmen is apparent in these foregoing words. Along parallel lines spoke one of the most eloquent men ever heard in America—the illustrious Daniel Webster, and also spoke Edward Everett, the great classical scholar of his time. And then there was Dr. Samuel Howe, the great Bostonian. He not only sympathized with us but he joined in our battle against the Turks. The names of Daniel Webster and Dr. Howe are engraved with golden letters in the hearts of Greeks everywhere.

"The qualities displayed during the conflict of 1821-1827 scarcely fell short of the old renown of the Greek nation shown at Marathon and Salamis. I am sure you will agree that in the history of the human race you will not find a more illustrious chapter. You all remember Leonidas of the imperishable fame and his immortal three hundred. In 1821 another Leonidas, no less worthy of deathless prominence, appeared on the bridge of Alamanos. He was Athanasios Diacos, brave as Achilles and as beautiful as Apollo. Among the first to fall for the independence of Greece, near Thermopylae was the gallant Diacos, who with a few followers like the Spartan Leonidas, stood against the hordes of Omar Vrionis at the entrance to the same narrow pass. All were slain, for they were overwhelmingly outnumbered by the Turks. Diacos was at first taken prisoner.

Liberty or Death

"When questioned by the Turkish bey with regard to the insurrection, he replied: 'All Greece is resolved to be free or perish in the attempt.' His life was offered him on the condition that he would enter the Turkish service. Of course he refused. 'I will put you to death,' said the pasha, 'unless you join me.' 'Greece,' answered the hero, 'will lose but one; she has many a Diacos besides me.' With characteristic cruelty the Turks tortured him. They received to impale him alive and with the refinement of torture which reminds us of the most awful tragedy ever executed on this earth they made him bear his instrument of torture of his death. As he walked erect and handsome as an ancient god to the place of his execution, he cast a look about him upon the faces of nature, all smiling with the beauty of spring—strange contrast to the bloody work of human hands—and repeated a famous old ballad of the land, 'Behold the time that Charon chose to take me from the living; the boughs are blossoming now with flowers, the heath puts forth its herbage.'

"And then for three hours he bore with unshaken soul the agonies which brought about his death.

"The present campaign is the final one and Greece, fighting alone to expel the Turk from Europe, will enter Constantinople to plant the cross in the church of St. Sophia, the church of our ancestors."

Polish People Pleased
At the close of his address Dr. Gatsopoulos read the following message from the Polish people of Lowell: "In the centennial anniversary of independence of the great nation of Hellenes, which has given the beginning of civilization to all the world and to the present day draws from its treasures of knowledge, we, the representatives of the 10th District of the Gymnastic and Physical Culture organization, thrilled at the regaining independence of Poland, cherished for so long, extend to independent descendants of the Spartans, our deep and sincere appreciation and hearty joy in this great day of historical anniversary." (Signed)

JOHN BARDZIK, Pres.
FRANK KOTOSOWICZ, Sec.

Other speakers were Rev. Nestor Boushides, who spoke at length on ancient Greece, Mayor Perry D. Thompson, ex-Mayor Dennis J. Murphy, Principal Henry H. Harris of the high school, and Rev. Appleton Grannis of St. Anne's church, who all congratulated the local Greek colony for the success of the observance. The celebration was in the hands of the following officers of the community: Christos Zlogkos, president; Demetrios Athanasios, secretary; Costas Thanas, treasurer; School committee, Harry Houpis, chairman; Peter Sarakos, secretary; Charles Demos, John Avlenos, Spyros Vrookos, Auditors' committee; Adl Dads, Vasilios Ganas and James Kirkiles, Board of directors; Demetrios Kemos, vice president; Apostolos Kykos, Aristonoulis Christos Svolantonopoulos, John Vergados, Soferios Demopoulos, Evasthios Ballis, Valos Papavasilou, Athanasios Kyriakon, George Koutrivos, Stefanis Kouklos and Peter Tsulfaras.

police said, that he carried a loaded revolver when he left home. Kloman told the police that he expected Loud at his home Saturday night, but Loud did not come.

Four 45-calibre bullets were found in Preston's living at the autopsy performed by Medical Examiner Hosono Perley of Melrose. A search of Loud's home revealed several bullets of similar calibre, the police assert, but they found no weapon.

Loud returned home about 10:30 o'clock, his wife informed the authorities, and told her that two men whom he met on the road had forced him to surrender his automobile. There were two bullets on his head, she said, and she asked him to summon a physician and also to notify the police of the holdup, but he complied with neither request.

George D. Anthony of Lynnfield reported to the Wakefield chief of police late Saturday night that as he was returning home he met an enclosed automobile going at high speed. As it approached it slowed down, he said, and a man who opened the door of the car called out, "Is everything all right?"

Several persons who were asked yesterday to give their versions of the shooting said that they had heard conversation between Preston and someone on the road. One woman said she heard shots.

Preston had been conducting a campaign against persons who parked automobiles at night and had brought several persons to court charged with disorderly conduct.

Loud was arrested last summer in the Metropolitan park reservation for disorderly conduct, was convicted and fined.

Dist. Atty. Tafts said last night that the authorities had established beyond a doubt that a woman had been with Loud at the time Preston attempted to arrest him.

Frederick M. Libby told the police that as he was walking home last night on Lowell road he heard a man's voice say, "Come on, come on." Then, he said, he heard a woman's scream, followed by several revolver shots.

Held Without Bail

MALDEN, April 11.—The killing of Pauline James A. Preston at Wakefield Saturday night, was charged as murder today against Clarence M. Loud of Melrose in the district court here. Loud pleaded not guilty and, at the request of District Attorney Nathan Tafts, was held without bail for a hearing on April 21.

Loud had been under arrest since early Sunday morning, when he was apprehended at his home by officers who obtained his name from a memorandum slip found inside the cap of the dead policeman. With his name was that of "Alice Bennett, Boston street, Somerville," but efforts to locate the woman who was the subject of that notation were unsuccessful.

The district attorney said the authorities were particularly interested in establishing the identity of the woman believed to have been Loud's companion, in learning how Loud sustained wounds on his head, and in finding the revolver with which the shooting was done. "The name and address in the officer's notebook along with Loud's was indefinite, Mr. Tafts said, and he gave no indication that he believed an arrest was imminent. Chief of Police Pollard of Wakefield, however, indicated that the woman might be in custody within a few hours.

The Wakefield police today dragged Lake Quannapowitt in the vicinity of the scene of the murder in search of the revolver.

IN THE POLICE COURT

More Fines in Liquor Cases

—Case Continued—One

Appeal Taken

Three fines of $100 each were imposed in cases where charges of illegal dealings in liquor were preferred. An other liquor case, that of Eli T. Steeves, who conducts a drug store at Lincoln square, was continued to April 18 in bonds of $200. Steeves is charged with illegal sale. Louis Parola pleaded guilty to illegal sale, and paid a fine of $100.

Peter Courty, who runs a candy and soda store on Thorndike street, pleaded not guilty to a charge of illegal sale. The members of the liquor squad, according to testimony, sent a man to the defendant's place, where a bottle of Jamaica ginger was produced. The man who brought the ginger and ginger ale took the stand, and said that Courty charged him 50 cents for the former, and 10 cents for the latter. He preferred a $1 bill in payment, and received 40 cents in change. He denied appealing to Courty's kindness, but testified that he told a story of his father's illness, and prevailed upon the storekeeper to furnish the ginger to relieve the father's ailment.

The man testified that he did not have enough money to procure the ginger, and that he had a bottle of Jamaica ginger which he had sold before at his establishment. He had it there because it was among the stock of another store which he had just and removed to his present place of business. A friend of the defendant took the stand and related the alleged details of the transaction, relating how he brought the ginger to the other and told him it was a poor father. An impassioned appeal by counsel for Courty asked the court to consider how great a thing is human sympathy, and asked for a dismissal

As a result of an automobile accident, which occurred late Saturday afternoon in East Merrimack street near the railroad crossing, Victor Haines, aged 5 years and residing at 91 Davidson street, is in a serious condition at St. John's hospital. The little fellow was crossing the street when an automobile operated by Warren Kane of 15 Hazel street, struck him. The boy was placed in the machine and taken to the hospital, where it was stated today that he is suffering from a possible fracture of the skull.

SOME EGGS WELL SAY

Edmund Gosselin of 222 Alden ave. has a Black Island Red hen, which he claims holds the championship of of the charge because of the defendant's kindly motives. At the conclusion of the argument, Judge Enright signified Courty's story as "preposterous and nonsensical," and expressed the view that it was "a story concocted to defeat the ends of justice, in my opinion." His Honor emphasized the fact that the man working with the liquor officers had, according to the defendant's own story, sat for ten minutes in the establishment, with the bottle of ginger ale in his pocket, before he bought the other potential ingredient of "Jacks." A fine of $100 was levied and an appeal was taken.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—State laws dealing with illegal traffic in drugs are enforceable even in conflict with the federal narcotic act, the supreme court held today. This hen, which is four years old, laid an egg yesterday, which by actual measurement is four inches in length from tip to tip and six inches in circumference, while its weight is slightly over 5 ounces. Mr. Gosselin claims the same hen laid six other extra large eggs during the past week.

REPUBLICAN CAR SHOPS

The Boston & Maine car shops at Merrimack will shut down all next week. This announcement was made at the office of the shops this morning, and the reason given for the proposed shutdown was "simply an order of curtailment from headquarters of the company." It was rumored that the shop would shut down one week in every four until further notice, but this was denied by one of the officials of the company, who said the only order he received was to shut down during the week of April 15.

To Adjust Mesopotamia Oil Dispute

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Adjustment of the dispute between the United States and Great Britain, growing out of the San Remo oil agreement concerning Mesopotamia, has been suggested informally to the United States it was learned today officially. The plan proposed was in a memorandum reaching the state department, but not made in such manner as to place the necessity for decision upon this government until more definite representations are received. It was proposed that the United States appoint a commissioner to confer with the British petroleum commission in the belief that such direct negotiations would lead to a more speedy adjustment than might be expected through usual diplomatic exchanges.

Many Disobey Strike Call

NEW BEDFORD, April 11.—Despite the strike call issued to all workmen affiliated with the building trades council, union men of all crafts were working today on several of the construction jobs where all the work is under cover. On other jobs some of the men obeyed the strike call for today, while others are working. Owing to the wet weather there is no work today on outside construction, and it was impossible to determine the extent of the strike among men employed in the building trades. On several of the jobs the contractors are maintaining the old scale of wages. The strike was called when the unions refused to accept the cut of 20 per cent proposed by the master builders.

German Military Forces in Upper Silesia

PARIS, April 11.—Despatches received from the allied commission in Upper Silesia, which supervised the recent plebiscite declare a complete German military organization with a full battalion in each district, has been discovered there. The entire force, numbering 20 battalions, with a full complement of machine guns and other arms and munitions, is ready for action the messages assert. Most of the German functionaries in Upper Silesia are alleged to be involved in a plot to employ force, in case the German claims for Upper Silesia are rejected by the allied supreme council. The Germans had a considerable majority in the total plebiscite vote, but important sections voted in favor of Poland.

Recover Napoleon "Love Beads," Stolen From Louvre; Bring $25 in Curio Shop

PICTURE SHOWS SECTION OF THE ANTIQUE SHOPPE, CURIO STORE, WHERE NAPOLEON NECKLACE, FOR WHICH A REWARD OF $150,000 HAD BEEN OFFERED BY THE FRENCH GOVERNMENT, LAY FOR MONTHS UNRECOGNIZED ONLY TO FINALLY BE PURCHASED BY TOURISTS. ALSO PRETTY CLERK, WHO HAD SHOWN THE BEADS TO DOZENS OF CUSTOMERS, APPEARS SMILING IN SPITE OF THE MEAN TRICK PLAYED BY FATE.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 9.—The stolen amber "love necklace," gift of Napoleon Bonaparte to Josephine, has been recovered.

And with its finding is revealed a tale as intriguing as any of the historic jewel mysteries.

Some 25 years ago the necklace was stolen from the Louvre in Paris.

An international search was started.

The French chamber of deputies offered a reward of $150,000 for its recovery.

The French secret service was sent on the trail. But no trace could be found of the historic necklace.

And as the years went by all but a few secret service detectives and some experts on antiques.

Sold for $25

About six months ago the beads found their way to Ye Antique Shoppe, a curio store in Chinatown here.

A little attention was paid to them, but no slight information at hand regarding the identity of the individual who peddled it. It is believed, however, to have been brought into port by a French sailor who sold it without any realization of its value.

And so the Bonaparte beads, unrecognized by tourists and owners, was placed on display in a modest show case with a price tag of $25 stuck behind it.

In the assortment of valuable scraps and camouflages it was generally overlooked.

Finally, a few weeks ago, a New York couple, tourists in California, bought it.

Jeweler Recognizes Necklace

The remainder of the story has been gathered from correspondence, chiefly with the Tiffany Company of New York, according to the police reports here.

Returning home the tourists went to a jewelry firm in Maiden Lane. They inquired whether or not the beads were worth the $25 paid for them. They

MRS. REIFENSTEIN, AGED 67, GAINS 25 POUNDS

Declares She Would Like to Put a Bottle of Tanlac in the Hands of Every Sick Man, Woman and Child in This Country—Never Saw Its Equal

"I am sixty-seven years of age, but in all my experience I have never known a medicine like Tanlac. Think of it! At my age to gain twenty-five pounds in weight, but that is just what I have done," said Mrs. Emma Reifenstein, of No. 337 Webster avenue, Syracuse, N. Y.

"If I had it in my power," she continued, "I would put a bottle of Tanlac in the hands of every sick man, woman and child in this country, for I know what this wonderful medicine would do for them. For almost two years I was almost a nervous wreck. I did not dare to leave the house or even go up town unless my husband went with me. I was afraid to even cross the street and had a feeling of dread all the time.

"My stomach was weak and easily upset. For days at a time I would go without solid food. I could not rest at night to do any good and felt tired and worn out all the time. Some days I could hardly drag myself across the room and was so weak and miserable I was ready to give up.

"My health is fine now and I eat anything I want and never have a touch of indigestion. I have never slept better than I do now. My recovery is the talk of our neighborhood, as it was generally believed I could not last but a few weeks longer. This grand medicine has brought me health and happiness and I just can't say enough in its praise."

were amazed when, a few moments later a price of $30,000 was offered for the necklace.

Going to the house of Tiffany they made similar inquiry.

It was then that they learned that the beads, when placed under a powerful microscope bore the engraved words: "Napoleon to Josephine."

They were offered $35,000 and accepted the sum.

The Tiffany firm, it is understood, has turned the beads back to the French government.

And so the famous amber "love necklace" has been recovered, though the mystery surrounding its various adventures remains still unsolved.

Mr. J. Reifenstein, in commenting on his wife's statement, said: "Yes, her recovery has been a happy surprise to us all. A few weeks ago I had no idea she would be able to pull through, but now she is in better health than I have ever seen her and the credit is due to Tanlac. We have been married fifty-two years today and I don't believe I have ever seen her looking any better."

Tanlac is sold in Lowell by Green's drug store, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative, by Wright Drug Co., Billerica, Mass., Snow's Pharmacy, Concord, Mass., and by the leading druggists in every town.—Adv.

At frequent intervals, each sipping her vitality and nullifying the measures taken by specialists to restore her health. When her son, former Prince Joachim, committed suicide in Berlin last July, she was in such serious condition that the news of his death was kept from her for a long time, and it is said she never learned her son killed himself.

Late last autumn, the former empress's condition gradually became worse, and on several occasions her children were called to Germany, but her strength was such that she rallied bravely when the end was believed imminent. Since the first of this year, it had been known that she was gradually sinking.

Former Emperor William and Prince Adalbert were at the bedside when the former empress died. They had been called by Dr. Haesner, who attended the former empress throughout her residence in Holland.

Plans for Funeral

LONDON, April 11.—Funeral services over the body of the late former Empress Augusta Victoria of Germany will be held at the House of Deputies tomorrow, and will be attended by only members of her family, says an Amsterdam despatch to the Central News. The remains will be taken to Holsen on Wednesday, and another funeral service will be held there.

Noted for Charitable Work

The German empress, Augusta Victoria, Queen of Prussia, was notably chiefly for her lively interest in charitable work and her efforts to relieve the distress of the poor. It has been said of her that she was not a gifted or especially graceful woman and that she cared more for the simple duties of her home life than for royal functions. It is not known that she exercised any considerable influence politically or that she desired to do so. Her talents seemed, instead, to be directed to the task of becoming a helpful wife and a devoted mother to her six sons and one daughter. That she achieved this aim, Emperor William frequently attested. He once described her as "the ideal of the virtues of a German princess. She it is," he declared, "to whom I owe that I am able to bear the weighty responsibilities of my position in a joyful spirit."

Concerning the attitude of the empress toward the war little is known. There has been nothing to indicate that he differed from her consort in the German ambition for world domination. Some indication of her point of view was given in her reply in July, 1913, to a letter written by the wife of the Dutch minister of war. In responding, the empress declared that Germany repeatedly had manifested her readiness for peace, which, she declared, had not been entertained by the opposing powers.

That she subscribed to the contention of military leaders that Germany was fighting a defensive war, was shown by a statement she issued at the beginning of a great conflict in which she said that Germany was arming itself for a fight which it did not cause or begin and which it is carrying on only to defend itself. In this appeal she asked German women to aid in caring for the German wounded. Numerous instances in which the empress visited German hospitals and expressed lively sympathy for the wounded soldiers have been reported during the war. On one occasion she was said to have broken down at the sight of great numbers of the German wounded sent home after one of the great battles in 1918.

For more than ten years the empress suffered in health and this was attributed to a disease of the heart but after treatment at German watering places she recovered her normal health.

Her sympathy with underpaid workers of Germany was disclosed on a visit which she paid some years ago to an exhibition of home industries in Berlin where it was stated that she was deeply moved by the evidence she saw there of the fact that many German workers earn only starvation wages. "What can be done to stop this misery," she inquired.

Her tenderness as a mother was revealed during the illness of her second son Prince Eitel whom she attended day and night. Arriving at the house where he was under physicians' care at 6 a. m. one morning she refused to rouse anyone for fear of disturbing him and, with her maid, walked up and down for an hour in the wintry morning until the doors were opened by the servants.

One of the stories told of her is that she enjoyed visiting schools in country districts, selecting one of the pupils and promising the child to fulfill any wish the child might express. A disconcerting instance happened when she did this in Alsace where the schools were being Germanized and the French language suppressed. A little girl, receiving the promise of the empress to grant her wish, asked that her schoolmates be allowed to study the French language. The empress was taken aback but French lessons were given in that school afterward.

Born October 22, 1838 at Doldz, Augusta Victoria was the oldest daughter of Grand Duke Frederick of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Augustenburg and ranked as a princess of Schleswig-Holstein. Her early childhood was spent at Kell. She was married to the then Prince William of Prussia on February 27, 1858. They had six sons and one daughter.

BOSTON RED SOX BEATEN

BOSTON, April 11.—The Newark N. J., International League baseball team defeated the Boston Americans 6 to 5 yesterday, advices from the New Jersey city said today. One costly error followed by ineffective pitching was said to have been the cause of the Boston team's loss of the game. The Newarkites smote Thormahlen with such success that a crisp was put in the chances of the Boston players virtually from the start.

A WONDERFUL WAY TO GUARD AGAINST FAILURE AND WANT

How—How Do They Do It. It's Easy Enough to Talk About It But the Thing Is—To Do It

How much are you making? Yes, YOU! Is it three dollars and fifty cents a day? Or is it five dollars, six dollars, seven dollars, ten dollars or fifteen dollars? Are you satisfied with it? Or do you continually grumble—without doing anything to make it more? But they're just as anxious and ambitious, and they're not to blame either. They'd do more, they'd earn more, if they only KNEW HOW—right down in their hearts they're willing enough to do it. They're just as anxious and ambitious, and they're not to blame either. They'd do more, they'd earn more, if they only KNEW HOW—right down in their hearts they're willing enough to do it. They're just as anxious and ambitious, and they're not to blame either. They'd do more, they'd earn more, if they only KNEW HOW—right down in their hearts they're willing enough to do it.

There are thousands of women in the same condition. Many of these are bright, intelligent, ambitious people who have all the necessary determination to go ahead, who have loads of ability, but who lack the necessary physical background—the strength, the energy, the vitality. Many of these people are realizing what it is that has HELD THEM DOWN and many of them have been lucky enough to stumble across the truth that it is MORE IRON—THE NUXATED IRON—that helps transfer such as is found in Nuxated Iron. There is a big reason why million have taken Nuxated Iron. This big reason deserves your serious thought as you read this article. This big reason is that real organic iron is in the Great Marican that helps transfer weak, wishy-washy, anemic people into virile human beings of dynamo force—people who go after the thing they want in life because they have the Zest and Zip to do it. Little Children Brighten Homes

EVERY young couple starting out in life has visions of joyful hours spent before the fireside with healthy, happy children; but, alas, how often young women who long for children are denied that happiness because of some functional derangement which may be corrected by proper treatment. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is just the medicine for these conditions, as the following letters show:

McDonald, Ohio.—"I suffered from a displacement, a weakness, and a great deal of pain. The doctor said nothing would help me but an operation. He said I could never have any children because I was too weak.

"I had often heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so I tried it and it helped me. Now I am in the best of health, do all of my own work, and have a lovely boy six months old. I recommend your medicine to my friends and you have my permission to use this letter."—Mrs. J. C. EAGLESON, 426 Garfield Ave., McDonald, Ohio.

Mesa, Colorado.—"Ever since I was a young girl I suffered from a great deal of pain every month. I tried different medicines, but only got relief for a short time. I had been married seven years, and wanted a child, but was not well enough. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as it had helped her, and I am happy to say it restored my health, my pains disappeared, and I have a fine little girl. I advise all women who suffer as I did to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. F. C. WILMER, Box 94, Mesa, Colorado.
